'Tip' Leads to Apprehension Of Gunmen Who Got $3,500 In Earlier Hold-Up.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Police recorded a $3,500 bank robbery as solved today with the bloody notation—one detective and two bandit suspects slain; four persons, including two policemen, wounded.

Shot in the abdomen, Detective Robert M. Cline, 42, lost his battle for life early today following a series of blood transfusions given by brother policemen.

Vincent Grinkowicz of Cleveland and a man known only as "Mac" were the suspects killed. Police were checking fingerprint records of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in an effort to identify the one victim.

Suspect Dying.

Another suspect, Carl Boettcher, 24, of Cleveland, one of the four targets for a hail of police bullets in a two-atory, west side rooming house yesterday, was reported in a dying condition. A bullet punctured his lung.

The other wounded were: Detectives William Danner and Leo Phillips and Mrs. Eva Watring, 38, a resident of the rooming house. Danner, shot in the abdomen, was in a serious condition; Mrs. Watring, suffering from a bullet in her thigh, was reported as "not so good"; and Phillips was released from the hospital following treatment for a wound above his eye.

With Cline's death, U. S. District Attorney Francis C. Canny prepared at Dayton to present immediately to a federal grand jury in session there the shooting facts.

He said he would ask for the indictment of Boettcher and Stephen Figuli, 20, of Cleveland, on charges calling for the death penalty. A federal law makes participation in a bank robbery involving the death of a police officer punishable by death.

Figuli, who escaped being wounded in the 20-minute exchange of lead, is held in city prison here.

Calls Sympathy, Good Food Cure For Suicide Urge

SEATTLE—(AP)—A sympathetic ear and a good, home-cooked meal were advanced today as the best antidotes for would-be suicides.

Thomas R. Boston, grandfatherly co-founder of the National Anti-Suicide league, reported his listening and his wife's skillet had dissuaded a number of near-suicides.

"You know, it's awful easy to get a person out of thinking about killing himself," Boston said. "Mostly we just let 'em talk.

"Lots of 'em are despondent because they're broke. We ain't got any money, but it's surprising how much good a home cooked meal will do."

Friends of despondent persons direct the Bostons to their "clients."

State Called As Smallpox Hits 4 More

Specialists Act to Check Disease; Immunization of Pupils Ordered.

Two officials of the state health department were in Mansfield today in an effort to check the spread of smallpox following the discovery of four new cases, three of which are Madison township high school students. At the same time Dr. Roy C. Rehder, public health commissioner, ordered the immunization of the entire enrollment of the school.

Dr. Rehder said that Dr. Finley Van Orsall and Dr. W. J. Smith, both of the communicable disease division of the state department arrived here this morning following a request to the state for a diagnosis of several borderline cases.

"In an effort to stem any possibility of a smallpox epidemic, the state department was called to diagnose several cases which we are not quite sure are either severe cases of chickenpox or smallpox," Dr. Rehder added.

270 In School.

Parents of the 270 Madison pupils have been given the choice of having their children vaccinated immediately or keeping them under quarantine for 17 days, the commissioner said. He also urged all persons in Madison and Mifflin township to be vaccinated whether they have submitted to the treatment within the last five years or not.

The latest cases reported were Robert Wilkins, 17, John Stutz, 14, Andrew Gottfried, 17, all of Lincoln Heights, students at Madison, and Hailman D. Longsdorf, 123 South Diamond street, an adult. This brings the total to eight cases reported to the health authorities within the past three days

The three high school youths were taken ill last week and have been confined to their homes. Their illness was diagnosed by attending physicians yesterday and reported to the health department. Longsdorf was also taken ill last week and was placed under quarantine yesterday.

CUTS FORCES

U. S. Moves Army Patrol Out Of China.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States took a long step away from China today by ordering its armed forces there reduced by more than one half.

After 36 years' service, the army will cease its Chinese patrol early next month by virtue of the order announced by the state department.

The 15th Infantry, comprising 808 officers and men, was transferred from Japanese-controlled Tientsin, North China, to Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Marines alone will remain in China, and they in ranks thinned by the recent order for withdrawal of 1,400 officers and men, reducing the American forces to about 1,800. Last month there were about 4,000.

RUSH W. FOURTH REPAVING PLANS

Engineers Draft Specifications In Move to Include Project In 1938 State Program.

Plans and specifications were being prepared today by city and state engineers in a move by city officials to obtain financial assistance from the state for the resurfacing of West Fourth street.

This action was the result of a meeting of city officials with District Highway Engineer A. I. Ault at Ashland yesterday.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter, who headed the delegation at yesterday's session, said that plans and specifications were to be drawn up by City Engineer W. C. Statler and Boyd W. Wierman, Richland county resident engineer for the state highway department.

Ault suggested that the plans be presented to state engineers in Columbus.

The mayor said Ault had promised to accompany city officials to Columbus and would recommend to state officials the need

SOVIETS AGREE

Moscow To Permit U. S. Envoy to See Jailed American.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Soviet government acceded today to a request that a United States official be permitted to see Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens, American citizen incarcerated in Russia on suspicion of espionage.

Charge d'Affaires Loy Henderson cabled Secretary Hull that Moscow had agreed to the long-standing American demands.

Henderson had asked that he or Second Secretary Angus I. Ward be allowed to visit Mrs. Rubens this afternoon or tomorrow.

Soviet authorities previously had informed the United States they would not permit an American diplomat to see Mrs. Rubens until after the Russian police had finished investigating her case

Recount Breaks Tie As Scouts Vote On Own 'City Officials'

A recount by Boy Scout officials this morning broke a tie in the scouts' mayoralty primary as Mansfield troops prepared to join next week in the nation-wide observance of the 28th anniversary of the founding of the movement.

The primary was held in connection with the scouts' selection of their own "city officials" who will hold municipal offices one day next week as the highlight of the local observance.

Scout leaders decided on a recount after votes for mayor on the Conservative ticket were tabulated and showed that James Gadfield and John Gano were tied at 27 each. The recount gave the nomination to Gadfield by four votes, a check of the ballots showing that Gano was credited with two more votes than he received.

Ralph Arlin of Troop No. 8 won the nomination for mayor on the Liberal ticket from a field of four candidates Opposing Arlin were Wilton Morkel, Edward Nalezinek, and Frederick Hanson.

Charles McClure defeated Leonard Burkholder in the race for service-safety director on the Liberal ticket, and will occupy that office when the scouts take

HITLER SEIZES ARMY CONTROL IN QUICK COUP

Knickerbocker Sees Purge As Move To Kill Attempts For Soviet Tie-Up.

EIGHT GENERALS RETIRED

All Had Favored Nazi Foreign Policy Change, Alliance With Russian Army.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Adolf Hitler's underlying purpose in his "purge" of the German army command was to stifle to growing movement for a rapprochement between Germany and Soviet Russia, H. R. Knickerbocker, the noted roving correspondent of International News Service, discloses in the following review of the situation cabled from Paris.)

PARIS — Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler has mastered the German general staff and made himself for the first time dictator in fact as well as name over the German army.

Without bloodshed, he has accomplished overnight what Stalin did a few months ago when he shot Marshal Tuchachevsky and seven Red army generals.

And Hitler has done it for the same reason as Stalin. First, to achieve unqualified overlordship of the armed forces. Second, to prevent accomplishment of the desire of both the Red army and the Reichswehr to bring about a rapprochement between the Soviet Union and Germany.

Parallel Move.

General Werner von Fritsch, commander-in-chief of the German army, and the seven generals of the Reichswehr retired by Hitler's lightning purge correspond almost man for man with the Red army's Tuchachevsky and his assistants.

All favored a radical change in Germany's foreign policy. They believed Italy is a weak sister and only a liability in time of war. They distrusted attempts to bring about an alliance with Japan

They wanted above all to continue to try to restore the Rapallo tradition, which was also the Bis-

RAIN WILL END SPRING WEATHER

Forecast Says It'll Be Colder Sunday, but no Cold Wave.

Spring-like weather which pushed the mercury up to 52 degrees at noon today and brought out the robins, may end Sunday, but there is no cold wave in sight, the forecast said today.

Light rain tonight will be followed by slightly colder weather Sunday forecasters predicted. There was no indication of a marked drop in temperature.

The temperature dropped from a high of 40 yesterday to 29 last night and the average for the past 24 hours was 34.5, or five degrees above normal.

HELD IN JAIL

2 Men Charged With Possessing Obscene Literature.

Two men, charged with the possession of obscene literature were held in the city jail today under $500 bond each.

Arraigned before Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch this morning, Lewis Kay and Harry Greenbaum, both of Akron, pleaded not guilty and asked for continuance. Their hearing was set for Feb. 11. They were arrested at West Sixth and Mulberry streets yesterday after police had received complaints that they had been peddling the literature.

PROBES 'RING'

Filmland Told White Slavers Prey On Would-Be Stars.

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Officers of the sheriff's vice detail today investigated reports that a white slave ring chose victims from Hollywood's pretty film aspirants.

The inquiry was launched after Larry Crosby, brother and business manager of Bing Crosby, reported to Capt Robert P. Cook that a man identifying himself as an agent connected with Crosby lured girls to his offices.

There, Crosby charged, the girls were paraded, nude or scantily-clad, before "buyers" of the ring who masqueraded as radio and screen executives.

Crosby said irate mothers of many girls had registered complaints.

U. S. CALLS FOR SUPER-WARSHIP DATA BY FEB. 20

Note Warns Japan Satisfactory Reply Necessary or America Will Plan For Larger Battleships; Britain And France Making Similar Demands.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The United States demanded today that the Japanese government say categorically on or before Feb. 20 whether Japan is building or plans to build super-battleships in excess of 35,000 tons.

The alternative, in event Japan fails to give a satisfactory reply, the note stated, would be that the United States would be compelled, in consultation with Great Britain and France, to consider construction for themselves of super-battleships larger than 35,000 tons and mounting guns larger than the present 16-inch caliber.

The demand was contained in a note cabled to Ambassador Joseph C. Grew at Tokyo for presentation to the Japanese foreign office.

The British and French governments are making like demands, the state department said.

"A preliminary consultation has taken place and the British, French and American governments have decided to approach the Japanese government with a request for information," the department said.

The United States, Great Britain and France are signatories to the 1936 London naval treaty which limits the size of warships they may build to 35,000 tons and armaments to 16-inch guns, unless some other power builds bigger and more powerful ships.

Plans for construction of battleships weighing more than 40,000 tons and armed with 18-inch guns have been under consideration by high naval officials for some time. Although naval officials refused comment, it was learned that some congressional leaders believe that the plans might be made to apply to the two battleships authorized in the 1939 naval appropriation bill already approved by the house.

In addition, Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) of the house naval affairs committee, author of the bill permitting a 20 per cent increase in fighting strength of U. S. fleets, said that his bill would permit battleships up to any tonnage desired

Demands Simultaneous.

The action of the three big naval powers was explained by officials as simultaneous and parallel but not joint The similar action was made necessary, it was explained, because all three are parties to the 1936 naval treaty; are jointly bound by the limitation provisions of that treaty, and would be jointly menaced by naval construction by some other power in excess of that treaty's limitations.

The American note was dispatched to Japan, and the parallel action of Great Britain and France was learned, a few hours after Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations and America's No. 1 ranking naval officer, had refused to answer questions by a member of Congress on the naval affairs committee whether the United States had an understanding with Great Britain on naval matters in the Far East.

It folowed by only a few hours also, announcement by the state department that this government had decided to withdraw the 15th U. S. infantry from Tientsin. Only a few days ago it was announced that approximately one-half of the 2,600 U. S. marines stationed at Shanghai will be withdrawn to Honolulu some time this month. These withdrawals will leave the United States only about 2,000 armed troops on guard duty in China, in addition to the units of the American Asiatic fleet.

Prompted by Rumors.

The note to Japan demanding information regarding Japan's naval construction plans followed persistent rumors over a period of months that Japan is planning or actually constructing two or more battleships of 46,000 tons displacement each, armed with 18 inch guns. The note pointed out that the Japanese government had never issued an official or categorical denial of these "persistent and cumulative reports" and said that in the absence of any authoritative denial, this government

U.S. Navy Inadequate to Defend Both Coasts, Congressman Says

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A week of testimony by Admiral William D. Leahy before the house naval affairs committee "has clearly demonstrated that the present navy is inadequate to defend both coasts at the same time," Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) declared today.

"The admiral's testimony has shown that as long as we keep the fleet in the Pacific, the safety of the Atlantic coast depends upon tranquility in Europe," Vinson asserted.

Leahy, the navy's chief of operations and No. 1 spokesman, completed five consecutive days of testimony yesterday in support of the administration's proposed $800,000,000 naval expansion program. He is scheduled to be recalled Monday for final questioning with the following day reserved for opposition to the proposal from the National Council for the Prevention of War.

Vinson pointed out the admiral repeatedly asserted during the hearings that with the fleet in the Pacific, the Atlantic coast was "without protection except for shore defenses."

The president, the committee

LaFollette Rips 'War Scare' Tactics On Naval Arms Plans

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Sen. Robert M. LaFollette (P., Wis.), usually a supporter of the New Deal, charged today that war scare tactics were being used to persuade congress to approve "like a pig in a poke" a new and costly foreign policy.

The administration's proposed $800,000,000 naval building program in reality involves a change in foreign policy but one which has not been disclosed to congress, La Follette said.

Calling for a clarification of hints that the United States and British foreign policy has been coordinated, the Wisconsin Progressive strongly condemned any plan that would turn the nation's energies and money from the unfinished task of national economic rehabilitation.

The question whether any naval understandings exists between Great Britain and this country was left unanswered today as week-end adjournment temporarily halted the arms program hearing of the house naval affairs committee. Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, refused to answer such a question in a public hearing on the grounds that "it is absolutely secret and vital to the interests and defense of this country."

Three days ago, however, Chairman Key Pittman, D., Nev., of the senate's powerful foreign relations committee, declared that he was certain the United States

Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. Paxton will also represent the Mansfield organization at the Continental Congress which will be held in Washington in April.

A paper on the "Northwest Territory" was presented by Mrs. H. L. Princehorn. She reviewed the early history of the opening of the territory which included the present states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota. This being the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the opening of the territory in accordance with the ordinance of 1787, Mrs. Princehorn discussed Marietta, the first town in the territory, and the industrial growth of this section of the country.

Mrs. Paul Eliot and Mrs. Stanley Richardson were the hostesses at yesterday's meeting at which time Mrs. Ethel Martin Hoffer, New York, and Mrs. Flora Richardson, Chicago, were welcomed.

Following the ritualistic opening of the meeting Mrs. Sidney Palmer, chaplain, read the devotions and the vice regent, Mrs. Tuttle, conducted the business session. Announcement was made of the candidacy of Mrs. Ackerman, Jared Mansfield regent, for the position of state chaplain.

Included in the committee reports were Mrs S. D. Hoover's announcement of the sending of clothing to Crossmore, N. C. Mrs. Tuttle reported that 12 Richland county high school girls are competing in the good citizenship contests. The winner in the contest will be awarded a trip to Washing in April during the D. A. R. Continental Congress.

Miss Betty Ackerman and Miss Nellie Patterson were received into the chapter during the meeting. Other business included the appropriation of a sum of cash for the upkeep of the Surrender room at Yorktown and the apportionment of funds for the purchase of a historical volume. Action was taken indorsing the $2,000,000 appropriation for armanents.

The next regular meeting will be a birthday dinner March 4 at the Women's Club.

Reminiscent of Gay Nineties

Above is pictured a charming negligee decidedly reminiscent of the gay nineties. It was designed by Patty Griggs, and it is made of floral crinkled organdie in water colors. White ruffles make a high neckline, edge the short sleeves, and form three dust ruffles around the trailing skirt hem. These ruffles and the velvet ribbon trim around the sleeves and neck, down the front and around the train, and the flat bows of the same that mark the throat and edge of skirt in front, are decidedly Victorian in trend.

Grace Eyerly, Harry Pollock Exchange Nuptial Vows Friday

ANNOUNCEMENT was made this morning of the marriage last night at 8 o'clock of the marriage of Miss Grace Eyerly, daughter of A. B. Eyerly, Oak Park, to Harry Pollock, 43 Clairmont avenue, at the First Lutheran church. Rev. Grove B. Swoyer read the ceremony.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eyerly and the service was witnessed by members of the immediate families. Mr. Eyerly is a brother of the bride.

For the ceremony Miss Eyerly wore a beige frost crepe street length dress with matching accessories and she wore a corsage of white rosebuds. Her only ornament was a hand-carved pendant from Lucerne and she carried a hand-made lace handkerchief sent her from Paris.

Mrs. Elerly wore a black satinback crepe frock and a shoulder corsage of gardenias. For traveling Mrs Pollock wore a coronation blue velvet dress with black accessories. Mr and Mrs. Pollock left immediately for a wedding trip after which they will be at home at the bride's father's home in Oak Park. Mr. Pollock is an employe of the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing company.

Softball for Women.

The game of softball for women is sponsored by industrial concerns all over the United States. The bases are closer, they point out, the ball is larger, and the drain on women's energy is not nearly as great as in other sports.

Ten Grandparents.

Those Black Veins.

Says Good Housekeeping: The black veins in shrimp which the inexperienced housewife doesn't know whether or not to remove, and the experienced one hates to take the time to eliminiate, need not necessarily be taken out, but they are the shrimp's viscera — inernal organs to you—and so it really adds to the attractiveneess and deliciousness of the shrimps to remove them.

Letters Received By Club Officer Read at Meeting

Mrs. Wilmot Peirce, officer of the Town and Country Garden club, read letters from Fred Snite, jr., at the meeting of the organization yesterday at the home of Mrs. Ralph Emerson, 507 Parkview boulevard. There were 17 members present for the luncheon.

Mr. Snite, who has corresponded with Mrs. Peirce, is the young man who has spent about a year in an iron lung. He was removed from China and made the perilous trip to the United States in the breathing apparatus.

His letters tell of his experiences, the interest many persons have taken in his plight, and the improvement in his condition Mr. Snite was stricken with infantile paralysis while in China and has been the subject of front page news many times since he undertook the hazardous trip.

At present he is in Florida and much improved in health according to reports. Following the reading of the letters, plans for next year's program were made. The executive committee will meet this Friday with Mrs. C. H. Bell to complete plans. The next regular meeting will be March 11 at the home of Mrs. G. W. Hypes, 56 Brickman avenue.

'Joker' Question No Longer Asked By Business Men

By JOAN DURHAM
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Joker questions, designed to throw applicants for jobs off their guard, aren't fair and are not used by the really modern employment director.

Marion Boyd, who has charge of interviewing as many as 3,000 applicants a day for a department store, says the joker questions may be "all right for criminologists, but we just never fall back on them."

Try To Be At Ease.

This is Miss Boyd's system:

For the preliminary interview, each applicant faces an interviewer through a little window and is checked on size and general appearance. Information on whether the applicant wants part-time work or depends on the job for a livelihood is noted.

The final interview is called the "rail" interview because a railing separates the preliminary and final applicant groups. Every attempt is made here to put the applicant at ease.

"Yes, I do keep a mirror tilted down so I can get a look at the applicant as he or she comes in," admits Miss Boyd who often has been mistaken for Billie Burke. "That gives me a head-to-toe impression and tells me whether there's a flair for fashion—or the person is just neat and well-groomed.

"But it also gives the applicant a chance to look at her hair when she takes off her hat — and pat stray strands into place."

Should Have 'Sparkle.'

Miss Boyd first chats with the applicant a minute or two—mentions the person who sent the applicant, perhaps. Or, if it's a former employe, she talks about the department that employe was in before.

"I notice, incidentally, how he walks and sits . . . whether he slumps or not . . . and how much vitality or 'sparkle' he has," Miss Boyd continues. "We use that term 'sparkle' a lot.

"I watch for mannerisms. Is he well-coordinated? Does he drop things? Is he ill at ease — or poised?"

Often applicants talk themselves out of jobs, she says. Because they find someone who'll listen to their story they go into it in great detail—wiping out their chances.

Sometimes, too, voices eliminate them—rasping, coarse voices.

Two other sure-fire elimination factors are shifting eyes and complaints about "shot" nerves — as an excuse for leaving a former job

MUSIC CLUB MEMBERS TO PERFORM MONDAY

Two Junior Groups Will Appear In Joint Recital Before Parents; Adult Organization at Mansfield-Leland Hotel.

COLLABORATING in a program of musical selections, members of both the Junior Music club and the Crescendo club will appear on the recital to be given Monday at 7:45 p. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The program will be presented before members of the Music Study club and parents of the members of the two junior groups.

Those from the Junior club performing will be David Weimer, pianist and winner of the National Federation of Music Clubs junior contest, Jean Kelly, pianist; Billy Klinger, eight-year-old violinist and Betty Shirey, violinist and winner of a state contest.

In the voice group will be Wanda Hess and a trio composed of Joseph and Frank Pival and Ann Jeannette Klinger. This trio represented Ohio in the trio division at the National School contest.

The Crescendo club will be represented by Ruth Preston, pianist, Betty Austin, voice, and a violin quartet composed of Lois Robinson, Evangeline Stone, Geraldine Marlow and Gladys Kerr.

Virginia Casperson will present a reading and Sigurd Jorgensen, instrumental director of music in the schools, will direct the senior high school orchestra in the opening numbers. Later Mr. Jorgensen will direct the clubs when they sing the national junior federation song.

Host and hostesses for the meeting will be Miss Theresa Pfeiffer, Miss Vera Smythe and Mr. and Mrs. William Layton, of the senior club. Mrs. Edward Gibson is president of the adult group and the two junior groups are supervised by Mrs. John Klinger and the Misses Louise Krause, Dorothy Smith and Margaret Black.

The junior club was formed five years ago next month and two years ago the second club—the Crescendo club — was formed. With the combined three organizations totaling a membership of over 200 persons, it is now planned to organize a third club for children in the elementary grades.

At a later time this spring, the two junior organizations will join again in presenting a program which will be open to the public, according to Mrs. Gordon, district junior counselor.

Personals

Mrs. Arthur D. Fair, Galion, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mosey, Park avenue west, for a few days.

Mrs. H. C. Stentz, Norwalk, a former Mansfield resident, is visiting friends and relatives in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Smith, South boulevard, are spending the week-end in Pittsburgh where they are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Smith.

Dr. R. C. Wise, Brinkerhoff avenue, left this week for Clearwater, Fla., where he will join his wife and son, Ralph. He plans to be gone for about two months.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hamilton, Dickson parkway, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. L. B. Hamilton and son, are leaving tomorrow for Hollywood, Fla., for a visit of several weeks.

Miss Bette Penhorwood, who attends school in Pittsburgh, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr and Mrs. W. B. Ford, 55 Wellington avenue, for the week-end.

Miss Leigh Burleson, Michigan university, arrived home this morning to spend Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Burleson, 512 Woodward avenue.

Mrs. Poling Entertains Ladies' Bible Class

Eighteen members of the Ladies' Bible class of the Mayflower Congregational church met last night at the home of Mrs. F. B Poling, 200 Harker street. Mrs. C. A. Cole and Mrs. Frank Case were associate hostesses.

Miss Bertha Zudwitz, vice president, was in charge of the meeting. Readings were given by Mrs. Mayme Fankhauser, Mrs. Charles Althouse, Mrs. Cole and Mrs. Sadie Adams. Mrs. H. A. Rudolph won the contest.

The next meeting will be March 4 with the place to be announced later.

D. of A. Council Conducts Meeting

Lady Garfield Chapter No. 24, Dauhters of America, met last night at the Eagles' hall for a routine business session under the councillor, Mrs. H. F. Jenkins. The charter was draped for Mrs. Maggie Ziegler, Lakewood.

Mrs. W. F. Kreisher, captain of the degree team, demonstrated the drill work with her team. Mrs. R. J. Croskey was named chairman of the condolence committee. The other members are Mrs. R. B. Altaffer and Miss Florence Matthes.

The next regular meeting of the council will be held Feb. 16 at the Eagles' hall.

Choir Group Entertains For Mr. and Mrs. Dye

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dye were honored last night by members of the St. Luke's Lutheran church choir following the regular choir rehearsal. Miss Clara Miller, Carpenter road, was hostess to the group.

Games were played and prizes were won by Miss Marie Weil, Ernest Schafer and Eugene Almy. At the close of the evening Mrs. Dye, who was Miss Geraldine Sherer before her marriage, was presented with a wedding gift.

Several Substitutes.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1938.

Drive carefully tomorrow—do your share to improve Richland county's traffic accident record this year.

Word comes that nine out of ten Americans still believe that a four-leaf clover brings good luck—then wonders why it doesn't.

The English language improves right along. When you remove a wart now, you call it a "surgical excision," and a cold-sore is "a vesicular eruption accompanying a febrile condition."

Work Grows With Purchasing Power.

SHORTENING hours per week to pass the work around is not a cure for unemployment, but only an emergency makeshift.

Many people seem to assume that the work now divided up, as if it were so much rationed food, is all the work there is and all there is going to be. But in a flexible economic system, such as ours is supposed to be, this cannot be true.

The amount of work grows with the consuming power of the people. More work makes more goods to sell, and more goods sold make work for more people.

How much more could be used if people had money to buy? There is an incredible deficit of goods today, as a result of long privation. The Brookings Institution estimates that to raise our living standards again as high as they were in 1929, we would have to produce every year for five years $33,000,000,000 worth of "durable goods" alone—substantial and lasting things like homes, factories, machinery, etc.—not to mention the vast quantities of consumers' goods like food, clothing and other perishable things. That would be 60 per cent more of such goods than we produced in 1929.

"There can be no doubt," says Dr. Harold G. Moulton, "that the workers required to restore living standards during the next five years are more than sufficient to absorb the entire volume of unemployment now existing." If that is the case, we should soon have millions doing a full week's work again—and liking it. Such good fortune awaits harmonious co-operation among business, government and labor.

Fewer Highbrows Needed.

PRESIDENT JAMES B. CONANT of Harvard may have started something when he told his board of overseers the other day that there was too much unemployment in the learned professions and something ought to be done about it. This condition is already acute in Europe, he says, and is becoming so in America.

He seems to agree, in principle, with various labor unions in a similar situation. The colleges shouldn't produce more highly educated people for the genteel and intellectual professions than there are jobs for them. He merely puts it in different language, thus:

> "Dogmatic statements are not in order when statistical information is scarce and difficult to interpret. No one knows how serious is the unemployment of university men. But it seems to me highly probable that a diminution in the total number of students in the universities of this country is desirable."

Not only would he have fewer students, but he would pick them more carefully, discarding "those who stand in the bottom quarter of the class."

This would be simply raising college standards. There can be no doubt, in the mind of any well-informed realist, that if the future boys and girls of this country are to have jobs, more of them must be trained not for the professions, but for skilled labor and supervision of workers. Technology must replace the classics; brains and hands must be trained for more practical things.

Naval Protection Needed.

THE NATION as a whole is apparently willing to go along with the government in the present plan for increasing naval strength, but there is naturally some questioning and some criticism. Many patriotic citizens are afraid of militarism or navalism, not because of its costs but because of the dangers they think it might get us into.

Perhaps the clearest statement in defense of the plan has been made by General Hugh Johnson, speaking not for the government but as a private citizen whose professional career and experience probably qualify him to speak on such matters about as well as anyone.

He points out a few simple facts like these: That for a country situated like ours, a strong navy is naturally the best defense; that this land is the richest in the world and most invites predatory attack if undefended; that our own safety demands a fleet strong and mobile enough to defend, if necessary, any part of the North American coast, including the Caribbean sea, and to scare potential aggressors away from South America; that our army is so small as to constitute no menace to any foreign country, and will not be much increased; that such a set-up is obviously defensive, not offensive, because it would require a great navy and great army together to menace any foreign rival.

Recalling an Early Genius.

EMANUEL SWEDENBORG, whose 250th birthday was recently celebrated in many places, was one of the world's great geniuses. Most people today think of him only as a religious writer and teacher. That was but one phase of his work. During the first half of his life he was known as a great scientist and philosopher. In the second half came his religious work.

Swedenborg shone in many sciences. He was an engineer like the great Italian artist, Leonardo da Vinci, and like him was interested in designing airplanes, failing perhaps only for lack of motive power. He was a pioneer chemist, physicist, anatomist, geologist, and so on, always original, and illuminating everything he touched.

It was Will Rogers who originally suggested, as a safety measure: "Have all Monday traffic move east and west; and north and south on Tuesdays."

The question arises, would studio audiences at a radio broadcast be as appreciative if they had to pay to get in.

Again the question arises, should the government spend for recovery or save for recovery?

Needless expense: Copyrighting a poem.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

PURELY personal piffle: Emily Post's best eloquence could not convince me dunking doughnuts is not perfectly dandy. My best dish of soupy hash was in Sopchoppy, Fla. When things used to go wrong during courting days I played "Poor Butterfly" on the gramaphone.

Art hoot from the bleachers: No movie star has yet topped Tom Mix's $20,000 a week. A picture I covet: "The End of the Hunt" by Dale Nichols in the Chicago Museum. When I get excited in argument I babble somewhat like that cry of the tobacco auctioneer on the radio.

I have to hear a Cole Porter tune several times before I want to hum it. Gorgeous eyeful: Mrs. William Rhinelander Stewart. Add well kept sideburns: Lee Shubert's. Tempus fugit note: Former Ziegfeld girls now shrink from such identification. It dates them.

In my scrap-book is a Hollywood letter from Marie Dressler that is a sermon on holding on: It reads: "The outlook is bleak. I am tempted to take what little is left and go to Paris to open a family pension for Americans." The dancing of Nijinski and Duncan did not thrill me like Harriet Hoctor's.

Kisses to Oscar Wilde for: "A party is something a hostess wishes she had not given." Hendrik Willem Van Loon gets better every time out on the radio. Wilson Mizner was once barred from the Lambs for remarking that without its full length mirror near the entrance it would have no members. Homespun note: A friend has a letter from Calvin Coolidge's father written on the side of an ironed-out paper bag. Winston Churchill is paneling his new home on his Cornish, N. H. estate in pine grown thereon. He is also a landscape painter and sits two hours a day at his easel and two hours writing a novel of philosophy. At 66 what a pleasant down coast! 1938's No. 1 picture stealer: Alice Brady.

The New York idea: I know a fellow broke and jobless who got some fancy engraved stationery on tick, had his replies sent to a wacky hotel and with that start re-launched himself in a $15,000 a year job. The best dinners in Chinatown are served at 6 p. m., as regulars know. Last of the rugged and blasphemous old timers: Jim Moore, the restaurant man. No man would look askance at full evening dress if he could look like Jack Buchanan does in one.

For the goodness sakes alive department: The Egyptian government asks me to see the coronation of young King Farouk with all expenses paid, and the next day they try to give the king the bum's rush. The first actor I ever interviewed in a dressing room was Julian Eltinge, the female impersonator. And the thing that impressed me most was that he chewed tobacco. Few conversations intrigue me more than those among taxi drivers around midnight in a Coffee Pot. New high in dumb-bells: Amos n' Andy's secretary. Miss Blue. The first year I wore a wrist watch I took it off when company came and when I went out in town.

It's a show to watch Gene at the Colony restaurant keep an eagle eye on every customer Florence Walton writes me that she places flowers on the grave of her former dancing partner, Maurice Mauvet, in Pere Lachaise every Christmas day. His body lies near the crypt of Bernhardt, Oscar Wilde, Rossini, Patti and Alfred de Musset. Bloodiest and best remembered prize fight: Ace Hudkins and Sammy Baker in Los Angeles. Most informed fellow about Broadway life: Abel Green of Variety. A letter from Homer Croy is invariably a laugh. Autobiography enjoyed most this winter: Frazier Hunt's "One American." Not many Yankees have lived such a cosmopolitan life as this square-toed country boy from Alexis, Ill. What a bet for the radio. That goes too for Mr. and Mrs. Menjou and Bob Benchley.

After 24 years of columning, I can think of no other job I would trade for mine. Outside of Garbo, it strikes me the most mediocre actresses wear dark glasses in public. Magnificent tribute to society's boredom and swell fodder for the communist boys: Elsa Maxwell's "I Live by my Wits," in Harper's Bazaar. The late Chic Sale had signed up to do a syndicate column of home-spun philosophy a few weeks before his passing. Editors say it had much of the Abe Martin tang. I can never stand in front of a parrot's cage without a flinch that it will suddenly peck out an eye.

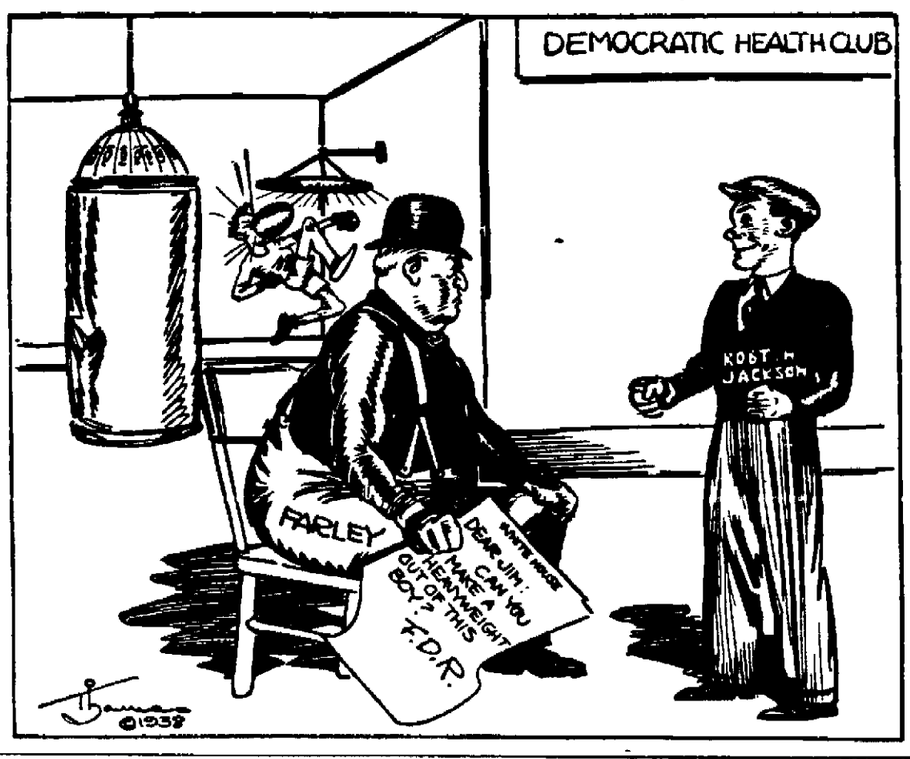
TROUBLES OF A FIGHT MANAGER



Comparing Cost of Rent With Home-Buying

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Rentals, some authorities say, are advancing or are on the point of doing so.

It is an argument in favor of individual home building — the housing program.

Do not pay rent. Build, and save money. That's the theory.

I wish rentals WOULD advance. It would verify my judgment. I do not pay any on my house. I own it. That is to say, I hold title to it. I am footing the bill for it on the instalment plan.

As explained by the real estate salesman, the scheme has an appearance of plausibility. The monthly instalments are a bit less than monthly rental rates would be. Besides, the instalment buyer is paying an equity in toward ownership of his property, which ultimately will belong to him—if he lives long enough.

He has, however, an initial down-charge to meet, tying up that much of his capital. His instalments also bear interest. He is soaked for taxes. And insurance. And upkeep. And fuel and utilities—which most apartments furnish gratis.

The total is considerably higher than if he were a tenant.

But if rentals would only bulge sufficiently? Why, then the instalment purchaser, whose impost is fixed by contract, would be able to give the laugh to the tenantry.

I hope they do, by gravy!

DR. FRANK WRONG?

Dr. Glenn Frank denounces the Roosevelt administration as Fascistic.

This is not very consistent.

Fascism notoriously is pro-big business. So is Nazi-ism, for that matter.

It is common talk that Italian big business backed Mussolini and that German big business backed Hitler. In both countries centralized government largely ended unemployment. Both countries largely lost their liberty. Yet Mussolini and Hitler alike created a certain sort of prosperity.

Accordingly, if the New Deal is Fascist, why hasn't it created a similar sort of prosperity here?

Yet Dr. Frank's complaint is that that is just what it hasn't done.

ANTI-LYNCHING BILL

Lots of northerners consider it a shame that the congressional anti-lynching bill has gone flooey by reason of the widely-advertised southern filibuster (participated in by a few northerners).

A northerner myself, I have to sympathize with the southerners.

The bill's motive unquestionably was bad.

As we all know, the Negro vote in this country has been almost 100 per cent Republican—dating back to the early post-Civil war days.

This did not matter while the Negro vote was concentrated in the south, where, to be candid, it was not permitted to cast itself. But, of late, the Negro vote has become a ponderable consideration in various northern states—New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. In spots it is the balance of power.

The northern Democrats wanted to catch it—to take it bodily away from the Republicans.

It appeared that this could be done by means of the anti-lynching bill.

It was not, in reality, an anti-lynching bill. It was a political maneuver.

I do not blame the south for resenting it.

No one condones lynching.

Northern Democrats tried to utilize this sentiment for partisan purposes. It was an error.

Listen, World!

Always the Tide Comes Back.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I WAS born in a ramshackle town that tumbled down from sleepy hills into a lazy bay, and always there was about me the glow of the sky, the glitter of the waters and sound of the wind moving restlessly through the tangled gardens and the narrow, crooked streets.

A simple life, warm and bright and open to the sun.

But with night, a mystery would come. For always at night, or so it seemed, the tide would turn; and there was something about that turning which set me wondering, fearfully.

A moment since, the bubbles had broken at my feet. Now they were a yard away—a rod—and between us had appeared a stretch of gleaming dark sand that briefly cupped the last light in its hollows, then lack black and still.

So the waters moved out and out, taking with them their beauty and their music, and the dark space widened and widened. And the sun set. And the night wind rose and fumbled stiffly through the rushes. And from the dark flats, on which no water could now be seen, there came the smell of death. Across the marshes a strange bird cried harshly, once, then was still. It was night.

So the tide would go out, and everything would seem to stop.

But, after a long time, a change would come. Even if you sat there, watching through the night, you could not tell afterward how it came. You only knew that something, somewhere, was waking, was moving in the darkness. Moving far off, very softly, very slowly, yet deliberately—drawing nearer and nearer.

And presently, as you strained your eyes to see, there would be a glimmering and a quivering, and a gathering together—

And suddenly, out of the darkness the waters would come rushing, racing, rising—with a sigh and a swish and a scoop and a swirl of foam—up, and up, and up!—into the morning!

So the tide would turn, and life would begin again, and hope and laughter and the secret clamor of adventure would run like the wind through the tangled gardens and the narrow strets. For the waters had come back.

Always it was like that. Always, whenever the tide went out, life would seem to stop, and one would feel that it never could start again. But always, and always, the waters came back again—and life started anew.

As a child to me that was a great mystery. And with the years that mystery has broadened. For I have come to see that the life of a man is much like that tide which filled and emptied that sunny bay. So, too, does the strength and desire in our human hearts ebb and flow, ebb and flow.

For a while we laugh and we work and we dream—and then something happens. A loss has come, or a shock, or some secret sickening we cannot define. But, suddenly, life is empty. Nothing moves. The waters have gone away. And we do not think that life will ever go on again. So we settle down to face the bitter mocking silence of the vacant years.

Then, suddenly, against all our believing, something moves within the silence; something quivers in the darkness.

And out of the night, hope comes racing; pride comes rising.

AND THE TIDE IS IN!

Hint to Rural Churches.

Consolidation is the solution of the rural church problem. This was the suggesion made at a session of county ministers as part of the farm week at the Ohio State university. The Rev. Harry E. Bicksler of Oak Hill said surveys showed 39 per cent of urban population was listed in church memberships and only 16 per cent of rural folk.

A new day in rural education has come with consolidated schools. Automobiles and improved highways have made this change possible. A centralized school today is the mark of a progressive farm community. But rural community churches are rare. They could be great forces for making country life more attractive. To build such churches denominational barriers would have to be leveled. Strong clergymen will be attracted as rural leaders only when the separate sects are brought together in large enough groups to finance effective work. America will be increased in cultural and spiritual worth when the day of great rural churches arrives.—Toledo Blade.

How It Started

The Bowie Knife.

A reader inquires as to "the origin of the bowie-knife."

"I should like to know the meaning of the word bowie," the young man writes, "which names this weapon which I know to be a hunting knife."

The Bowie Knife is a large hunting knife which was popular with pioneers in the Southwest, and which was improved by Col. James Bowie. It bears his name, and should therefore be capitalized, "Bowie knife."

What One Man Thinks

—By DAVID GIBSON

Every profession is crowded—at the bottom.

An old time country funeral was the scene of many a horse trade.

Labor is the greatest producer of wealth—but not to most of us who labor.

The profits from the sale of idle land comes from the products of busy land.

The food in drinking places is usually good—alcoholic stomachs can't stand poor cooking.

Most of us can be fooled all the time in the matter of continuing our barbaric tax system.

A man is arrested for stealing a goose off the commons, but never the man that steals the commons from under the goose.

Regarding Wills.

THIS article may induce more clients to lawyers, and I hope it does; for it will be constructive to the possible saving of no end of time, work, of those involved, the prevention of future litigation and much everlasting ill feeling.

A Pittsburgh dental supply manufacturer once told me that if every mature person in the United States should suddenly decide to have their teeth cleaned, it would require the time of every practicing dentist in the world for a period of five years.

And the like is true with the lawyers if every person of property concluded, all at once, to have their wills drawn or already existing ones checked.

But no such sudden wisdom on the part of any great mass of humanity — no such good fortune to the dentists and lawyers.

In my time, directly or indirectly, I have had to do with the settlement of the estates of many deceased persons—some of them of large affairs.

All the grief and complicated litigation attending any of these cases was due either to the failure to leave a will at all, a defective self-drawn one, or the neglect to have a will checked and re-drawn to conform to changes in the law, domestic affairs or business conditions.

Too many men with the ability to build and conserve large estates have the egotism to believe that they can dispose of that estate, "as they please," without the services of a lawyer and to the saving of a fee.

A will, to hold water, in the majority of cases, is a relatively simple document, but—

Technically, it must be correctly drawn and executed!

For instance, I have seen self-drawn wills broken by a contesting lawyer proving that the witnesses to it did not sign in the presence of each other.

Where the heirs are few and all direct, and one is named as executor, it should be stated that this executor shall serve without bond—the omission of this clause often leads to needless complications and expense.

Even a lawyer should not draw his own will. His sentiments, desires and prejudices, under emotion, are apt to overbalance his judgment—even his legal knowledge.

There is an old aphorism: "A man who acts as his own lawyer has a fool for a client."

And this applies to lawyers as well as laymen.

To those who undertake to make a just disposal of a considerable fortune to those near of kin, it is well to realize that there may be just one person in life between its widely scattered dissemination—all or in a large part.

I have seen men work and slave throughout a long career to build up an estate, and women to conserve an inheritance, and to have it finally go to a whole host of obscure relatives, perfectly legal heirs, in whom the original testator had no interest—never heard of one of them, and all through the failure of an original beneficiary to make a will.

We all hear much of the complexity of the law, the cost of litigation in the way of lawyer's fees and delays due to crowded court dockets; but if we who comprise possible litigation would put our material houses in order while still of this earth, why, much of the criticism in the machinery of the law would be eliminated.

I have known many lawyers, both personally and on the pro and con side of litigation in which I have been involved, and I have never known one that would not do all in his power to prevent possible litigation in drawing agreements between parties or wills in disposition of an estate according to a client's desire.

Lawyers, as a class, undertake to prevent litigation the same as a doctor undertakes to prevent disease.

All this, if they are consulted in time.

And again like the doctor, lawyers are often paid the least for their greatest value as social servants.

Fasting.

EVER since I have been reading newspapers, individuals have indulged in long periods of fasting, either for the attending personal publicity or as a possible example in the cure of certain bodily ailments.

They are in groups and periodical—about like seven-year locusts.

Anybody that has ever examined the plates of Gray's Anatomy will understand that long periods of fasting are extremely dangerous.

But it has been advocated by the leaders of certain health cults; with too many disastrous results.

There are cases where fasting for reasonable periods will apply with benefit, but it should be done only under the advice and direction of a common sense physician and one free from the influence of fanatical health cults.

Fasting is the standard treatment in cases of typhoid fever, but thanks to better social sanitation, this disease is now a medical curiosity.

The late John H. Patterson, founder of the National Cash Register Co., a follower of boiled grass and nut-eating fads, told me that he once fasted for 30 days—even to the total elimination of a series of warts upon his hands.

The followers of any school of medicine will agree that elimination of waste from the body is quite as important to health as nutrition; that the eating of one meal forces or aids in the elimination of waste from a preceding meal; that during a fast, an over-weight person will lose about two pounds per day, which means that the waste from this accumulated fat will throw too much duty upon the kidneys, particularly if there is any weakness to these organs.

The whole human elimination system becomes paralized from inactivity under too long a fast; an internal poison sets in that even affects the patient's mind to insane fanaticism in refusing to partake of food and to self-imposed starvation.

Where fasting is prescribed and directed by a common-sense physician, it is for a reasonable period and the patient is required to drink large quantities of water, the juices of citrus fruits at meal-time intervals and to take frequent special baths to produce artificial perspiration to lighten the burdens upon the kidneys.

DEMANDS JAPS BARE PLANS ON NAVY PROGRAM

U. S. Calls For Super-Warship Data by Feb. 20; Britain, France Join Request.

must conclude that the reports are true.

"The American government has therefore decided that it will be necessary for it to exercise its right of escalation (invoking the "escalator clause" of the naval treaty, giving it the right to build bigger ships) unless the Japanese government can furnish the aforesaid assurances and can satisfy the American government that it will not, prior to Jan. 1, 1943 lay down, complete, or acquire any vessel which does conform to the limits in question, (of the 1936 naval treaty) without previously informing the American government of its intention to do so and of tonnage and caliber of the largest gun on the vessel or vessels concerned," the note said.

The note fixed Feb. 20 as the date by which this government must receive the Japanese assurance because "it is incumbent upon this government, under the London naval treaty, to furnish information with regard to its naval program to the treaty powers within the first four months of the calendar year and that in order to prepare its estimates and have them ready for communication to the other naval powers parties to the London naval treaty, it is essential that the facts upon which the estimates are based be wholly assembled at the latest by the end of February."

Here's Text of Note U. S. Sent To Japan

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The text of the note to be delivered to the Japanese government today by the American ambassador at Tokyo follows:

"1. The Japanese government will be aware that under the London naval treaty 1936 the American government is precluded from constructing capital ships (I. E. vessels of more than ten thousand standard displacement or with a gun of more than eight inches) which exceed thirty five thousand tons or carry a gun or more than sixteen inches, or which are of less than seventeen thousand five hundred tons or carry a gun of less than ten inches. As regards cruisers (I. E. vessels of not more than ten thousand tons with gun of not more than eight inches) the American government is limited to a maximum of eight thousand tons with six inch guns.

"2. The Japanese government has unfortunately not seen its way to subscribing to the London naval treaty nor has it hitherto felt able to give any assurances that treaty limits would in practice be adhered to by it.

"3. As the Japanese government will be aware, the naval treaty gives the American government a right of escalation in the event of building not in conformity with treaty limits by a power not a party thereto. There have for some time been persistent and cumulative reports which in the absence of explicit assurances from the Japanese government that they are ill-founded, must be deemed to be authentic, that Japan has undertaken or intends to undertake construction of capital ships and cruisers not in conformity with the above-mentioned limits. The American government has therefore decided that it will be necessary for it to exercise its right of escalation unless the Japanese government can furnish aforesaid assurances and can satisfy the American government that it will not, prior to Jan. 1, 1943, lay down, complete or acquire any vessel which does not conform to the limits in question, without previously informing the American government of its intention to do so and of tonnage and caliber of the largest gun of the vessel or vessels concerned.

"4. In view of the forthcoming publication of naval estimates and necessity for giving other treaty powers information as to intended American construction, the American government will be glad to receive a reply not later than Feb. 20 next.

Should no reply be received by that date or should the reply be lacking in the desired information and assurances, it will be compelled to assume that the Japanese government either is constructing or acquiring or has authorized the construction or acquisition of vessels not in conformity with the limits referred to. The American government would thereupon be obliged in consultation with the other naval powers with which it is in treaty relations to resume full liberty of action. If, however, the Japanese government though engaged in, or intending to engage in, construction not in conformity with treaty limits, were willing to indicate forthwith the tonnages and calibers of guns of the vessels which it was constructing, or was intending to construct, the American government for its part would be ready to discuss with the Japanese government the question of the tonnages and gun calibers to be adhered to in future if Japan were now prepared to agree to some limitation. It would however be necessary that such consultation should be completed by May 1."

HITLER SEIZES ARMY CONTROL

Sudden Purge Viewed As Move To Halt Move For Alliance With Soviet Army.

mark tradition, of friendship with the Soviet Union, calculating that no combination could be so powerful as Russia's vast material resources and population with Germany's industrial supremacy in Europe and military leadership.

Above all, they were determined to engage in no military adventure in which Germany's eventual success was not assured.

Thus they were classed as conservatives as compared to those members of the Nazi party and a few generals who were willing to follow the lead given by the fuehrer without criticism.

Position Weakened.

The position of those conservatives already had been weakened twice. First, by Hitler's reoccupation of the Rhineland against the general staff's advice but with such notable success he was able to demonstrate he knew far more than Prussian army officers about how to guide the Fatherland toward glory.

Second, the general staff was badly hit by Stalin's execution of those very Red army officers upon whom German military leaders depended for eventual achievement of their hopes of uniting the military and economic resources of vast Russia with potent Germany, with the eventual aim of carving up Europe between them.

Hitler's ability to carry out a coup against the army depended primarily upon the fact that on the day of Von Hindenburg's death, every member of the German armed forces swore a personal oath of loyalty to Hitler.

No Need for Bloodshed.

Because of Prussian military tradition and loyalty to an oath, Hitler was able to remove from office his ablest and most popular generals without killing them, whereas Stalin in order to obtain the same reform in the Red army had to execute most of its best leaders plus hundreds of lesser officers and appoint political commissars of the Communist party to accompany every Red army commander from second lieutenants up.

Two views obtain about the immediate significance of the charges which Hitler's newest purge imposed at the same time on the army and diplomatic corps.

On one hand, the French and other potential adversaries of Germany point out that removal of Von Fritsch and his companions must cripple the German general staff in the same way that execution of the Red army's chiefs must have diminished the Soviet union's striking power.

On the other hand, some observers note ominous signs that in the case of both military and economic changes, men known as radicals have displaced conservatives.

Meaning that those likely to concur in an adventurous course have taken positions formerly occupied by those favoring a more cautious policy.

Thus Joachim Von Ribbentrop, the new foreign minister, is known to be far more likely to concur in policies involving hazards than Baron Constantin Von Neurath, whom he displaces.

General Con Keitel, new chief commander of the German armed forces in a new post superseding retired Marshal Von Blomberg's ministry of war, is virtually unknown, but it is safe to assume he got the job because he would uncritically obey.

Marriage Called 'Trivial.'

Von Blomberg's marriage is regarded as a trivial occasion in all these events and without significance save as it gave opportunity to the general staff on one hand and the Nazi party on the other to bring in a crisis the differences which had divided them.

Some expert foreign opinion inclines to the belief the whole purge signifies Hitler's intention to strike somewhere in the near future, and attention is directed to the transfer of General Von Reichenau from Munich to Leipzig. Von Reichenau is one of Hitler's staunchest friends in the army, Leipzig is the springboard for a potentail German dive into Czechoslovakia.

The present purge is further proof of Hitler's political genius although the final outcome cannot yet be foreseen.

In June, 1934, Hitler with the army wiped out his own brownshirts who had brought him to power but under Captain Ernst Roehm had become ungovernable Thereby Hitler allied himself irrevocably with the army whose leaders, eminent among whom was Van Fritsch, felt they could always manage the fuehrer.

They have now discovered they were just as wrong as was Roehm who, however, suffered a more violent end.

Evidence that the situation in Germany is not yet stabilized is the fact Hitler finds it necessary to take over immediate administrative command of the armed forces. Goering might not have been able to quell the rebellious feelings of Prussian officers at the indignities offered their chiefs.

But the magic of Hitler's name is still sufficient to obtain an automatic salute of obedience from that vast army and air force and growing navy before which Europe trembles.

SHELBY POSTAL OFFICIAL WEDS

SHELBY—Postmaster Leo McGaw was to be married this afternoon in Wilmington to Miss Josephine Garretson of Ashland. The ceremony was to be performed at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ there by Rev. O. L. Hall.

After the ceremony, the couple will motor to Florida, and will return to Shelby, where they will live at 129 West Main street, March 1.

McGaw has been postmaster here for the past two years. He is a member of the Shelby Ad club and is part owner of a grocery here.

have served a reformatory sentence for carrying concealed weapons, was wounded in yesterday's gun battle at a Columbus rooming house.

The second former reformatory inmate was blamed by Stephen Figuli, captured bank robber suspect, with helping to start him on his "hold-up career" which led to his capture by police yesterday in the capital city. His name was not given.

Questioned in the Columbus city jail, Figuli said he was working as a welder when he met "a guy who had been in the reformatory and decided to go with him on a cople of jobs. We got caught, though," he added, "and I went to the Lancaster industrial school."

Critically wounded in the battle which followed a west side Columbus bank hold-up that netted $3,500, Boeitcher was accused by Figuli of shooting him as gangland retribution for Figuri's alleged "talking" after a previous bank robbery.

Figuri was not seriously hurt.

Reformatory officials said today they had no record of Boettcher's serving a term there, and expressed the belief that he may have given a fictitious name when captured yesterday.

Dispatches from Cleveland said police records there showed Boettcher had been sentenced to the reformatory in October, 1935.

chairman added, took a like position in his special message to congress recommending the expansion program. At that time, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"We cannot assume that our defense would be limited to one ocean and one coast and that the other ocean and the other coast would certainly be safe.

"We cannot be certain that the connecting link—the Panama canal—would be safe. Adequate defense affects therefore the simultaneous defense of every part of the United States of America."

Likewise, Vinson recalled that Admiral Leahy had agreed that to shift the fleet from the Pacific to the Atlantic through the Panama canal would take three weeks.

The admiral declared, however, that construction of a Nicaraguan sea-level canal would cut one week off that time. There have been indications that the navy favors construction of the additional connecting link.

Throughout the week Admiral Leahy steadfastly denied this nation has an agreement with Great Britain or any other nation for naval co-operation in time of war. He did tell the members, however, that to disclose publicly the results of the recent conversations with the British admiralty regarding expansion would be to divulge defense secrets.

over the city for one day. There was no candidate for that office on the Coonservative ticket.

In the race for chief of police, Robert Curry defeated his opponent Albert Fillipelli on the Liberal ticket. Jake Sternbaum won the nomination on the Conservative ticket with no opposition. In the race for city engineer, Robert Larson defeated Ralph Simpson on the Liberal ticket, and William Hollingshead won over Glenn Laser on the Conservative ballot.

A four-way race was held on the Liberal ticket for councilman-at-large, with three of the candidates nominated. Winners were Lee Adams, James Curry, and James McClure. Robert Nelson, the fourth candidate lost by four votes. Joseph Horvath was the only candidate for the councilman-at-large post on the Conservative ticket.

Frederick Lavender won over four other contestants in the auditor race on the Liberal ticket. He defeated Ralph Zoll, William Dietrichson, William Kochheiser, and Darrell Nichols. The Conservatives have no candidate for this office.

In the election to be held Tuesday, Ralph Stanton, Liberal, will oppose Harry Laser, Conservative, for the clerk of council post. Neither candidate was opposed in the primaries.

William Stahl, son of Frank Stahl, captain at Fire Station No. 4, was elected fire chief, by defeating Truman Clark on the Liberal ticket. There is no candidate for this position on the Conservative ticket. Robert Meese was elected city solicitor, defeating William Winbigler on the Liberal ballot. There is no Conservative candidate for solicitor.

Liberal candidates chosen as the result of no opposition from the Conservative party are Robert Burns, municipal judge, Richard Weaver, president of council, Robert Brooker, first ward councilman, and Robert Stevenson, fourth ward councilman.

National Boy Scout week will be celebrated throughout the country next week by more than one million scouts.

Meetings, banquets, an election, and church services will mark the observance of scouts in the Johnny Appleseed Area.

Heading the Mansfield celebration will be the election Tuesday night at which the scouts will choose the boys who will occupy 13 city offices when the scouts take over the reins of the city for one day during scout week.

Special meetings will be held Tuesday night by the 18 Mansfield troops during which all members will cast their votes.

Scout week will be opened Monday evening with a "Fireside Chat" by President Roosevelt, when he speaks to the Boy Scouts of America during a coast-to-coast radio broadcast on the nation's three major networks. The broadcast will be carried by the Mutual Broadcasting system, National Broadcasting company, and the Columbia Broadcasting system, and will be heard at 6:45 p. m. With President Roosevelt on the broadcast will be Walter W. Head, president, and Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive, of the Boy Scouts of America.

Program at Hedges.

Monday evening troop No. 5 at Hedges school will hold a parents night program and pot luck dinner, and Tuesday evening troop No. 17 at Bushnell school conducts a parents night program, and will have members of the school's Mother club as their guests.

Wednesday evening the weekly training course for scoutmasters and assistants, will be held at headquarters in the Elks building. At 9:30 p. m. the officials will listen to a special Boy Scout broadcast by the National Broadcasting company.

Wednesday evening the Mutual system also will broadcast a special program, direct from the National Scout headquarters in New York, while the Columbia system will carry a special coast-to-coast broadcast originating in New York City in which several thousand Boy Scots will participate.

Saturday evening a Jamboree banquet will be held in the dining room of the Elks home for those scouts who attended the National Scout jamboree last summer at Washington, D. C., and for the scouts who were registered to attend the 1935 jamboree, that was called off by President Roosevelt because of an infantile paralysis epidemic. Fathers of these scouts will be guests at the banquet.

The anniversary observance by Mansfield scouts will come to a close Sunday evening, Feb. 13 with a special Boy Scout church service at the First Lutheran church. Rev. Grover Swoyer, pastor of the church, will preach the sermon.

A Farmer's Diary

Feb. 4.

ON MY trips into town, I have been impressed, lately by the number of new houses that are going up along the highway. Many of them are beautiful, veneered with stone, and lavishly landscaped. Others are simple two or three room cottages. But they all tell the same story. Their owners want more air and sunshine, more garden land, more room for children to play. They share that Anteus-like need for the touch of the good earth.

Jack and Polly have just announced their engagement. They are two modern young people, both employed in one of the city's huge manufacturing plants. Jack's father is a farmer, but the boy has maintained his own bachelor apartment for some years, and is accustomed to city advantages. Polly's 20 years have been spent almost entirely in town. So, when I asked the young folks where they expected to make their new home, it was something of a surprise to hear. "Oh, we've got us a few acres out among the hills, and we're going to live out there. Looks like we'll be able to live better that way."

"But is there a house?" I asked.

"No," grinned Jack. "But there's a swell place for one, and we can build us a cabin, to start."

Of course they can—and will. And when they have planned their cabin, and laid the foundation of native stone, and raised the walls and put the roof over their own heads, then they will have laid also the foundation for a happy marriage. I wish them every good thing, even to the added joys of a brood of small Jacks and Pollys. The discernment of such young people is a hopeful sign. The farm is not just a place to live—it is a good way of life.

society at a meeting yesterday pledged its co-operation to the health department in the fight against the disease by offering to vaccinate free of charge all indigent persons who called at their offices. The vaccine is being supplied to the physicans by the health department.

Dr. Rehder said the health department offices on the third floor of the city building would be open from 7 to 9 tonight and from 9 a. m. until noon, 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. and 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. tomorrow, to care for all indigent persons who want to be vaccinated.

He pointed out that the proportion of immunization in Richland county was relatively low and urged the vaccination of all persons regardless of whether they have been vaccinated in the past.

He said that special attention would be given to all persons in Madison and Mifflin township in an effort to check any possibilities of an epidemic in that area.

The disease was first discovered Thursday when it was reported to the health authorities that the illness of Wayne E. Miller, principal of Madison township high school, was diagnosed as smallpox. Two other cases were reported in Mifflin township the same day, and another yesterday.

Inquiry Board Questions Trio Of Plane Crash Survivors.

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Members of a naval board of inquiry appointed to investigate the crash of two naval bombing planes, which cost the lives of 11 men, were expected to return to San Diego today and from there report their findings to the navy department at Washington.

The board members spent yesterday aboard the naval hospital ship relief at San Pedro questioning the three survivors of the tragedy which occurred 70 miles southwest of San Diego during fleet maneuvers Tuesday night.

Memorial services will be held in the chapel of the Naval Air base at North Island, San Diego, Sunday to pay tribute to those who lost their lives in the collision of the two huge twin-motored bombers.

CALLED TWICE

Firemen Extinguish Minor Blazes In Two Homes.

City firemen were called to two homes to extinguish minor blazes in the last 24 hours.

Yesterday afternoon company No. 1 answered a call at the home of J. L. Robb, 60 Heineman boulevard, to extinguish a fire in a closet that had started from spontaneous combustion. No damage was done.

Companies No. 1 and No. 3 were called to the home of Irvin Munster, 385 Davis road, when a defective fireplace caused $50 damage.

13TH CHILD ARRIVES

The 13th child arrived yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Beck, 62 High street, when a daughter was born to Mrs. Beck. All 13 children are living.

CHILD HELD IN 'PRISON' 6 YEARS

Girl Imprisoned In Room As Punishment For Mother's 'Sin,' Police Learn.

(By International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa.—A 69-year-old grandfather, a prosperous farmer, today was charged with forcing his daughter to hide her crippled illegitimate daughter for six years in a second floor storage room on his farm, "as a sort of punishment for her second sin."

The first "sin," said the grandfather, Davis, Harris, is a seven-year-old boy. Unlike his sister, however, the boy is normal in every respect. Harris' daughter, Martha, 27, told investigators the father of both children was an 80-year-old farmer.

The crippled child, so weak she was unable to move her body and could only lift her hands, smiled feebly at a probation officer and humane society official who found her. She was unable to talk. Her body, torn with rickets, lay wedged on the back of an old-fashioned rocking chair.

The child was found after a neighboring women's club asked that an investigation be made of reports a child, never seen by outsiders, was hidden on Harris' farm, 17 miles from here.

The old farmer said he had never seen his granddaughter in the five and one-half years she was in his farmhouse. He told E. M. Smith of the humane society and Mrs. Helen Reagan, Fayette county probation officer:

"She (his daughter) had one kid. When she brought this other one home I had to do something to make her realize this thing couldn't keep on. I made her keep it up there, take care of it and feed it herself as a sort of punishment for her second sin. I could forgive the first, but not the second."

MOURNS 'DAL'

Washington Pays Tribute To Dead Police Chief.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— President Roosevelt led official Washington today in mourning the death of Capt. Clarence L. Dalrymple, head of the White House police and a member of the force for 40 years.

Dalrymple, a native of Steubenville, know as "Dal" to presidents of the United States since 1898, died of a heart attack while on his way home last night. He was 68.

He left the White House at 7 p. m. and was found unconscious on the sidewalk in the southeast section of the capital about an hour later.

"Captain Dalrymple was one of those public servants whose efficiency through 40 years of service—latterly as head of our White House police—was enhanced by a self-effacement which placed devotion to duty above all else," Mr. Roosevelt said in a statement after Dalrymple's death.

Mansfield Drops Thriller To Cowboys in Last Minute

By Davis J. Walsh

International News Service Sports Editor.

Fred Apostoli forced to rally to defeat Glenn Lee in Garden Battle; Edison, Neb. boy almost produced another upset.

NEW YORK—To the rest of us, Fred Apostoli may be and probably is the greatest middleweight that never held a championship. But to Glenn Lee, of Edison, Neb., a gent I shouldn't care to encounter in a dark doorway, Fred's just another prize fighter he was able to bash and buffet with considerable success from time to time last night and, in the end, almost make the former blow the decision.

The referee, Arthur Donovan, called it for Lee at six rounds to five, with one even. The judges, Kid McPartland and Marty Montoe, voted the other way. That was my story, too, but all I've got to say is that it's a good thing they held the fight in Madison Square Garden. If it had been a nearby pub, the only way they'd have stopped Lee would have been to call in the cops.

Thus, the comical middleweight division almost produced another of those hilarious reversals for which it is fast becoming notorious. Apostoli was 3 to 1 out on the cement in the lobby but he had to take the twelfth and last round to win for me—and some didn't think he won at all. His record going in there was that he has stopped Europe's world champion, Marcel Thil, and America's world champion, Freddie Steele, and all he's got so far is a medal of merit, or something.

HE ALMOST did the same with Lee in the fifth and eighth rounds last night. The latter had a couple of Leon Errol knees here from sharp rights to the chin but, after lasting to the bell in the fifth, he came back to punch Frederick around in the sixth and seventh and then came off the eighth to rally and take the tenth.

Apostoli, who has probably the most adept right hand these rheum-dimmed eyes have gazed upon in years, spoiled his performance by pacing himself with spurts. Otherwise, he stood and let Lee lead to him—and I, for one, am convinced this can't be done. Lee, for instance, was leading by four rounds to three, going into the eighth, but got slathered with a right cross which put a couple of hinges on his knees, and a right uppercut that would have dropped him on his face, only he fell forward into Apostoli's arms The fight was won—and lost—in those three minutes.

WHEN Apostoli wanted to move and punch, which wasn't too often, there wasn't a moment when his short, sharp punches didn't make Lee run badly into second money. But Frederick spent too much time trying to block, instead of trying to punch And when he did the former, Lee couldn't miss him with a right to the body, followed by a left to the chin.

It was quite a prize fight, but the 10,000 crowd that paid a gross of $32,985 somehow found it not quite up to its billing. Still, the only trouble with the latter was that it failed to state that the law called for five-ounce gloves,

Scoreless Second Period Proves Costly to Tygers As They Bow, 25-23.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

AKRON WEST'S court representatives lived up to advance notices.

Heralded as one of the strongest teams to visit the Tyger lair this winter, the invading Cowboys displayed a brand of the flashiest basketball witnessed on the Mansfield high court this season as they rung up a 25 to 23 triumph over the home dribbler.

The melee was packed with thrills, and it was not until the automatic horn on the new scoreboard sounded to end the game that the outcome was certain.

Second Period Costly

Outside of a lapse in the second period when the Tygers permitted the visitors to obtain their winning margin, the Harry E. Mehock-handled basketeers held their own very well with the touted Cowboys.

It was their failure to score a single point in the second quarter that cost the Tygers the ball game.

They held a 7 to 4 advantage at the completion of the opening period, and they outplayed West in the second half, but the advantage secured by Coach Russ

Warriors Seek Ninth Victory Tonight

The pace-setting Warriors of Ontario high school seek their ninth victory against Richland county league competition tonight when they entertain Bellville. The defending county district champions have dropped only one game this season.

Beichley's rangy hoopsters before the intermission was more than the Tygers could overcome.

Mansfield trailed by a 11 to 7 count at the intermission, and although they failed to reduce the margin in the following chapter, they out-batted West in the final stanza to retain victory possibilities until the last.

A basket by big Bill Fabre, Akron center, in the last minute after Johnny Hallabrin had knotted the count with a corner shot decided the issue.

Hallabrin Leads Rally.

It was Hallabrin who led the thrilling Mansfield rally that sent the game into a tie in the final minutes.

At one time in the third period, Mansfield trailed by eight points, but a couple of baskets by Hallabrin and a pair of free throws by Dave Shelley, who played the entire game in the absence of the injured Tom Scott, forced to the sidelines with a bad ankle, kept the Tygers' hopes alive.

Going in the fourth quarter trailing by a 19 to 15 margin, Shelley cut the difference by a point with a shot from the charity line Febre increased the margin, but Hallabrin registered a free toss and came right back with a basket to reduce the lead to two points, 21 to 19.

After Jim Johnson tallied with a one-handed shot near the hoop, Hallabrin scored two baskets in quick succession Hallabrin's last basket knotted the count, 23-all, with two minutes remaining.

Both teams threw caution to the wind at this stage, and fought for the basket that would win the game

Akron Gets Break.

The Akron team received the break with a minute to go Johnson, who, by the way, is the classiest ball player seen in Mansfield in some time, missed a set-up, but the towering Fabre was right behind him, and he tapped in the rebound for what proved to be the deciding points

Mansfield made a couple of desperate attempts to tie the score in the fading seconds with long shots, but the mark was bad, and it had to be content with forcing one of northeastern Ohio's strongest teams to the very limit.

The excitement was maddening near the end of the game, and the officials found it difficult to control play. But th better team won However, the Tygers lost no prestige by putting up the kind of a scrap that they did.

Held scoreless in the first half, Hallabrin was exceptionally brilliant as he tallied 11 points in the last two periods to lead both teams in scoring.

Neil Hallinan, who accounted for 10 points, and Johnson stood out for the visitors.

Register 9th Win.

Mansfield reserve teams won the preliminary games. The junior varsity, led by Gene Herpich and Mike Horvath, defeated Perrysville high, 47 to 15, to chalk up its ninth straight win, and the No 2 reserves walloped a Mayflower church quintet, 55 to 27, with Don Rose and Patterson, who scored 19 to 16 points, respectively, leading the way.

BRINKMAN DEFEATED

Jim Brinkman of Bucyrus was defeated by Larney Durrah of Cleveland in the finals of the 160-pound division in the Golden Glove tournament in Cleveland last night.

BUCYRUS—Shelby high school cagers now know what happens when they meet a good defensive team.

The Whippets met such a team in the Bucyrus Redmen here last night, and all they had to show for their trouble were three baskets, the hosts winning easily, 31 to 12, to retain the N. C. O. conference lead.

The Richland countians did not score a single basket in the first half, but a free throw in the second period saved them from a shutout at intermission, Bucyrus leading, 15 to 1.

Bill Deaver led the Bucyrus scoring with nine points, and Johnny Carlisle and Donnenwirth were next high with eight apiece. The eight points scored by Carlisle run his total to 133 points in 11 games.

Bucyrus took the prelim game by a 28 to 22 margin.

Yellow Jackets Forced to Limit.

GALION—The Yellow Jackets of Mt. Vernon high ran into a scare here last night as they eked out a thrilling 35 to 34 victory over Galion in a North Central Ohio conference tilt.

Mt. Vernon, the only league team to defeat the pace setting Bucyrus club, entered last night's melee as heavy favorites, but was forced to come from behind to take the decision. The triumph enabled Mt. Vernon to strengthen their grip on third place in the race.

Eddie Lore was the offensive star of the evening, rattling the backboards for 10 points. Adams topped the losers with nine.

The Mt. Vernon seconds clung to second place in the Junior varsity race by drubbing Galion, 27 to 11.

THE PIPER'S TUNE

CHAPTER XXI

"That's all right. And don't worry....he knows his way around. If all his friends are as good as you, he'll make out well enough. Shall I look at the weather? It's about time for the run home."

While Severance was out of the room, Caradad sat motionless looking into the fire. She wondered if she had been wrong in mentioning Terry and his business affairs to a man almost a stranger. But, somehow, she couldn't make it seem wrong. Instinctively she liked the way Severance had reacted to her questioning. He didn't think it very honorable to discuss another man's situation—he would be like that. And, for that reason, Caradad had no fear that he would consider their talk in anything but the strictest confidence. But it didn't make her any more comfortable, so far as Terry was concerned.

Severance's advice was vague, but it had a sinister sound. Terry was to watch his step. What did that mean? Severance had made it plain that he never did any business with Terry. There was but one conclusion to draw from that. Terry was being discussed by other men—discussed unfavorably. It just didn't seem possible that he could have been doing anything that wasn't quite.... right. Terry was a Cantine after all.

She couldn't give him that advice or any warning whatever. But she wished she knew what it was all about. She was still turning it over aimlessly in her mind when Karen came in to chat a moment.

The farmer's wife was plainly pleased when "Mister Yon's" company praised her cooking, more than pleased when she found that Caradad could and liked to discuss kitchen affairs. Young women from the city didn't, as a rule. "Miss Vardell" even know how to bake bread and the two were engaged in a deep discussion of methods when Severance returned. He stood with his back to the fire and listened with an amused smile until the discussion was finished. Karen expressed a hope that Caradad would come back soon and withdrew.

"No rain yet," Severance reported, "and I don't believe we're going to have any. But it's surprisingly cool. I had Jerry bring in a light motoring coat. It's on the chair over there by the door. You'd best slip into it when you're ready to start."

"I'm ready now."

The trip back to the city was made swiftly, almost too swiftly, Caradad thought. She leaned back in her corner of the wide seat, enjoying the protection of her wrap while the wind beat against her face. And she was deeply engrossed in listening to Severance. It was almost the first time he had proved talkative and Caradad urged him on with an occasional artful question.

He had spent several months in Spain the year previous, wandering by himself through the Cantabrian mountain area for the most part. But he was perfectly familiar with Madrid, could draw vivid word pictures of its streets, of the sights of Valencia, Cartagena. Better still, he could give a concise account of the civil strife that had kept these cities in the day's news. What the fighting was about, the probable reaction in Europe, even in Asia. John Severance certainly knew the world first-hand, Caradad decided a trifle enviously. He must have been everywhere.

"It has been so enjoyable," she sighed when the Rushmore was reached. Severance lingered by the side of the car.

"If you mean that," he suggested, "maybe you'll be willing to go again."

"Of course I will!"

"You say that so enthusiastically, I'm uncertain whether I or the fried chicken constitute the chief lure."

"Neither one," Caradad laughed mischievously. "It's the 'Yoe horse,' as Mrs. Sorenson would say. So."

"I'm still glad. We'll both take you up. Good night . . . and thanks,"

"Good night, Mr. Severance."

She turned away and hurried into the hotel lobby. Up in her suite, Caradad scarcely had removed her hat when the telephone sounded. She went to it in some surprise and answered the summons.

"Oh, Dad!" said a breathless voice. "This is Greta. I want to see you. May I come up? I'm downstairs. . . . "

Gerta Greenway had done some deep thinking before she decided to seek another interview with Caradad Vardell. She had an instinctive dislike of overplaying her hand in any situation. But everything had undergone a change in the past twenty-four hours. Her own affairs were approaching a state that might prove unpleasant, if not rather desperate.

As the hours passed, no word came from Terry and several calls at his hotel failed to locate him. A late afternoon telephone call to the Rushmore resulted in a report that Miss Vardell did not answer.

It was a strange sensation for Gerta to face an issue without selfassurance. And here was one that must be faced.

Her growing unrest, stirred by Caradad's visit in Chicago, was based on no jealous fear of losing Terry's affections. It was the danger of having his interest diverted from her, and that was something Gerta could not afford. She demanded much from life, comfort if not absolute luxury, and until lately, Terry always could be depended upon for financial assistance. Now, instead of listening readily to Gerta's quietly enthusiastic desires for this or that, he suggested letting creditors wait a little. But one of them, an exclusive gown shop, had become unpleasant—was making firm but polite references to legal action. "Bluff," was Terry's comment. But there were numerous other accounts he knew nothing about.

If Terry's affairs were as hopeless as he claimed, Gerta saw herself dragged down into the financial wreckage with him. Something had to be done—anything. He had not intended to tell Gerta of Caradad's offer to help. It had slipped out. This changed her from a liability to an asset. Of her own accord, this girl had offered to help Terry when all other avenues of assistance seemed closed. Gerta could not appreciate his compunction in the matter.

What if the girl did not have a great deal of money? It might easily be enough to tide Terry over, set him on his feet and encourage him to fresh efforts. His run of bad luck couldn't last. He could take care of his most pressing obligations—and Gerta included hers in that solution—and, in all probability repay Caradad within a reasonable time. If he couldn't—well something must be left to chance these days. If Caradad hadn't found that out, she would.

The chief difficulty that presented itself was the getting of the visitor from Oklahoma to renew that offer. She might be too proud to risk another refusal. She looked like a person who might easily be hurt. But on the other hand, she had not been able to disguise a renewed interest in, if not affection for, Terry Cantine. There was but one thing that would spur Caradad to another effort—genuine fear for Terry.

If only she knew and understood Caradad a little better. But the time was growing short. She took a taxi to the Rushmore early in the evening—after another attempt to contact Terry had failed.

Miss Vardell also was out. Gerta bought a newspaper and retired to a far corner of the lobby to wait for a time. Shortly after nine, she was rewarded by the sight of Caradad hurrying to the desk for her key. In riding clothes, too, the watcher noted. And speculated.

After Caradad had entered the elevator, Gerta waited a few moment, then strolled leisurely to the nearest house phone. There was a hesitating "of course" to her request that she be allowed to come up. But there would be little difficulty in finding an excuse for so unceremonious a visit. And, when Caradad opened her door, Gerta was ready with a laughing greeting.

"Isn't this just too informal for words, Dad? How are you, dear? What an adorable little nest you're in—so attractive!" Gerta, dropping gracefully into a chair, glanced about the small living room with admiring interest. So Dad had treated herself to a suite. That was encouraging. "This really is homelike, don't you think?"

"I've found it very comfortable," Caradad admitted, wondering why she had not thought of the mezzanine when Gerta called. "I had just come in when you phoned," she offered, by way of changing the topic.

"Had you really? I see you've been riding. Wasn't it rather cool this evening?"

"It was before dinner," Caradad told her, but offered no further explanation.

"Yes? I was dining quite informally with some friends, right here in your neighborhood," Gerta said after a brief pause. "When I started home I had to pass your door and thought I would drop in a minute and say hello before going on."

* * *

Gerta hesitated before replying. "I hate to mention it . . . you will begin to think that I have some sort of obsession about poor Terry. There is no one else I could tell it to, though. I had some very distressing news this evening about him."

"What?"

"I dislike to worry you with it, dear, because there is nothing you can do . . . now."

"Please tell me."

"Well . . . I learned tonight, quite in advertently, that Terry is in more serious trouble than we suspected. You see, Mr. Evans is in the brokerage business. And you know — how things get around. He knew that Terry was a good friend of Don . . ."

"Yes."

"Perhaps you don't know that Terry dabbles a good deal in the market—on the side. I've often begged him not to . . . To devote himself strictly to his own line of work. But he's reckless . . . a real plunger.

"You mean that he has lost a great deal of money lately?"

Gerta slowly shook her head. "It's a little worse than that. I don't know the details, but . . . well, I'm afraid it was somebody else's money. It had a dreadfully ugly sound, the way Mr. Evans talked. I'm afraid that anything may happen, now."

"But surely . . . surely some one will help him! I mean—there must be something he can do!"

The older woman shook her head sadly. It was effective and gave her time to think. "I would have said that Terry would be too proud to accept help. But it seems —he hasn't been."

"You mean things have been arranged?"

"On the contrary, Mr. Evans told me that he understood Terry had approached ever so many of his friends and had been turned down. I warned him to be careful, but he always laughed at me . . ." Gerta sighed deeply. "It seems to be just one of those things. I can do nothing. I wouldn't even dare let him know what I have heard. I suppose he will have to make the best of it. It's too late for advice. And that is all I could offer him. So . . ."

"But, Gerta!" The horrified anguish in Caradad's brown eyes betrayed her completely. If Gerta Greenway had hoped to frighten her into taking some action, she had succeeded. "There must be something that somebody can do! Why, if Terry has—if he is in trouble of that sort, he might . ."

"Find himself entangled with the law," Gerta supplied sadly. "That is what Mr. Evans hinted. Only he put it more plainly." She looked at Caradad speculatively. "I don't suppose that Terry has any friends down home who would help him—temporarily?"

"I'm afraid not," Caradad decided hopelessly. "His family moved to California some years ago. They haven't much money, I know."

"Too bad. I'm inexpressibly sorry. But it's no good worrying and you mustn't either, my dear. You know the old saying about having to pay the piper." Then, as if to cover a carelessness that had crept into her tone, she added. "Of course you won't intimate to Terry that I know anything of this—it's strictly confidential—but you know him so well."

"No, I won't." Caradad agreed dully.

After Gerta had gone, she walked slowly back to the dresser and stood staring at the little kodak picture.

"Terry . . ." she murmured with a sob. "They . . . they mustn't do anything to you!"

What Is Your News IQ?

(By Associated Press)

Each question counts 20, each part of a two-part question, 10. Score of 60 is fair; 80, good. Answers on page 12.

1. Who is this famous American? On what coin does the Treasury plan to put his portrait?

2. The area of China proper is 1,533,000 square miles. Has Japan conquered (a) half of it, (b) 970,000 square miles, or (c) 465,000 square miles?

3. Fewer persons last year paid taxes on net incomes of more than $1,000,000 than in 1936. True or false?

4. Why is 1938 a noteworthy year for Australia?

5. What do electrical engineers say tomorrow's trolley cars will be like?

WELL- WELL! IF IT ISN'T MR. GUDGE!
MY-MY-AND IF IT AIN'T TH' SHERIFF-
HI, GUDGE, OLD POTATO- HOW'S TRICKS?
HI, SHERIFF- 'FRAID YER WASTIN' YER TIME-
THERE'S YOUR MONEY, MR. GUDGE- FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS, PLUS ALL THE INTEREST DUE, UP TO TO-DAY- I'LL THANK YOU FOR THE MORTGAGE PAPER AND THE NOTE I SIGNED-
HUMPH- GUESS I AIN'T NEEDED HERE-
SO SHE PAID YUH IN FULL, EH? NOW AIN'T THAT DUCKY?
AND TH' SHERIFF CAN TEAR UP HIS EVICTION ORDER-
IT WAS A JUST DEBT- I WAS VERY LENIENT- NOW SHE'S PAID ME IN FULL- BUT MY DEALINGS WITH ABIGAIL ALDEN ARE NO BUSINESS OF YOURS-
NO-O-O? MAYBE WE'RE MAKIN' THEM DEALINGS OUR BUSINESS-
HO! HO! YOU'VE EARNED A LITTLE SOMETHIN' EXTRA-
SO YOU THINK YOU'VE BEEN PAID IN FULL, EH?
YEAH- YER BONUS, GUDGIE- I'VE BEEN SAVIN' IT FOR YUH-
I- I'VE GOT TO GET BACK TO MY OFFICE-

THE NEBBS—The Moths and the Flame. By Sol Hess

I DON'T KNOW HOW MUCH MONEY BETTY'S GOT BUT SINCE THE PEOPLE FOUND IT OUT THEY ARE BRINGIN' THEIRS HERE
2-5
YOU CAN TELL SHE ISN'T USED TO WORK BY THE WAY SHE MAKES CHANGE
I HEARD SHE LEFT HOME BECAUSE HER FATHER WANTED HER TO MARRY SOME OLD GUY
SHE LOOKS REFINED. YOU CAN'T HIDE IT WHEN YOU'VE GOT IT
SHE DID NOT LOVE
WHAT TIME DO YOU GET THROUGH HERE TONIGHT?
COME AROUND TOMORROW AND I'LL TELL YOU I NEVER KNOW TILL I'M THROUGH
THEY THINK I'M RICH... I'M JUST WONDERING WHAT THEY THINK, I'D BE DOING HERE IF I WAS!- I'LL BET THE SAND FLIES HAVE A GREAT TIME AROUND THE ELECTRIC LAMPS ON MAIN STREET IN THE SUMMER!

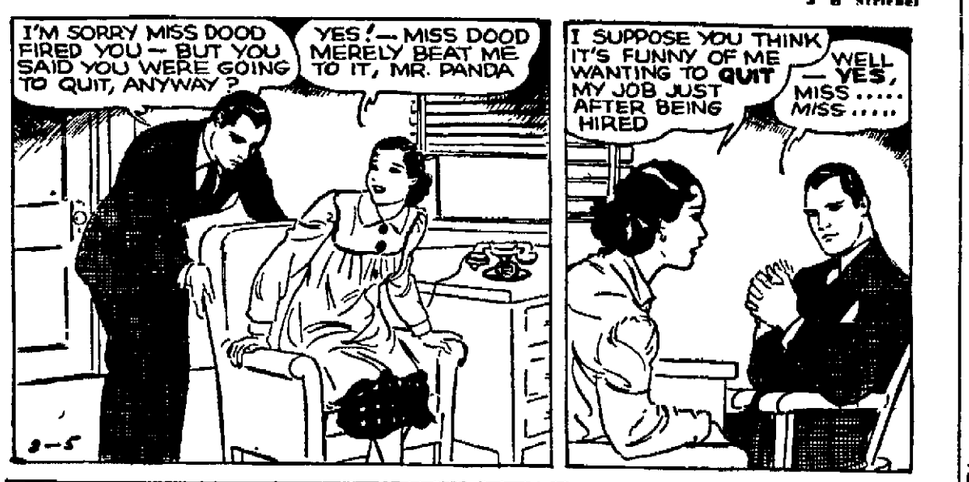
DIXIE DUGAN—A New Job. By J. P. McEvoy and J. H. Striebel



I'M SORRY MISS DOOD FIRED YOU— BUT YOU SAID YOU WERE GOING TO QUIT, ANYWAY?
YES!— MISS DOOD MERELY BEAT ME TO IT, MR. PANDA
I SUPPOSE YOU THINK IT'S FUNNY OF ME WANTING TO QUIT MY JOB JUST AFTER BEING HIRED
WELL— YES, MISS..... MISS.....
DUGAN— DIXIE DUGAN
YES, MISS DUGAN— IT WAS A RATHER UNUSUAL PROCEDURE! —WHY DID YOU?
BECAUSE I'M A CAPABLE SECRETARY, MR PANDA, —WHEN YOU CAME THROUGH THE FACTORY THE IDEA CAME TO ME SUDDENLY TO ASK YOU FOR A POSITION

BRICK BRADFORD— In the Fortress of Fear. By William Ritt and Clarence Gray

THIS IS THE BUILDING—SOON I'LL FIND OUT JUST WHY I WAS SENT TO SEE THIS DR. DRAIN ELEVATORS
AND I'D ALSO LIKE TO KNOW WHY THAT GUY MARU IS SO INTERESTED IN DR. DRAIN AND ME!
TWELFTH FLOOR—THANK YOU, SIR!
WILL YOU PLEASE TELL DR. DRAIN BRICK BRADFORD IS HERE TO SEE HIM?
DR. DRAIN WISHES TO SEE YOU AT ONCE—PLEASE FOLLOW ME
WHO IS THE STRANGE DR. DRAIN AND WHY WAS BRICK SENT TO SEE HIM? — EVEN BRICK DOESN'T KNOW THE ANSWERS BUT HE WILL— SOON!

MICKEY MOUSE—Brimming Over With Joy. By Walt Disney

HOME AGAIN! THE GOOD SHIP GIGANTEA MOVES INTO IT'S PIER, BRINGING MICKEY AND MINNIE BACK TO THEIR NATIVE LAND!
CAN YOU SEE 'EM, HORACE?
OH, SURE! MINNIE LOOKS FINE, BUT MICKEY'S A LITTLE PALE!
SEVERAL MINUTES LATER.
GOSH, IT'S GOOD TO SEE Y' AGAIN, OL' SON! MAKES ME FEEL LIKE A COLT!
GO ON-- YOU'RE NOT HAPPY! LOOK AT THE GIRLS!
I'M SO H-HAPPY!
M-ME-- TOO-- OOO--BOO-HOOO!

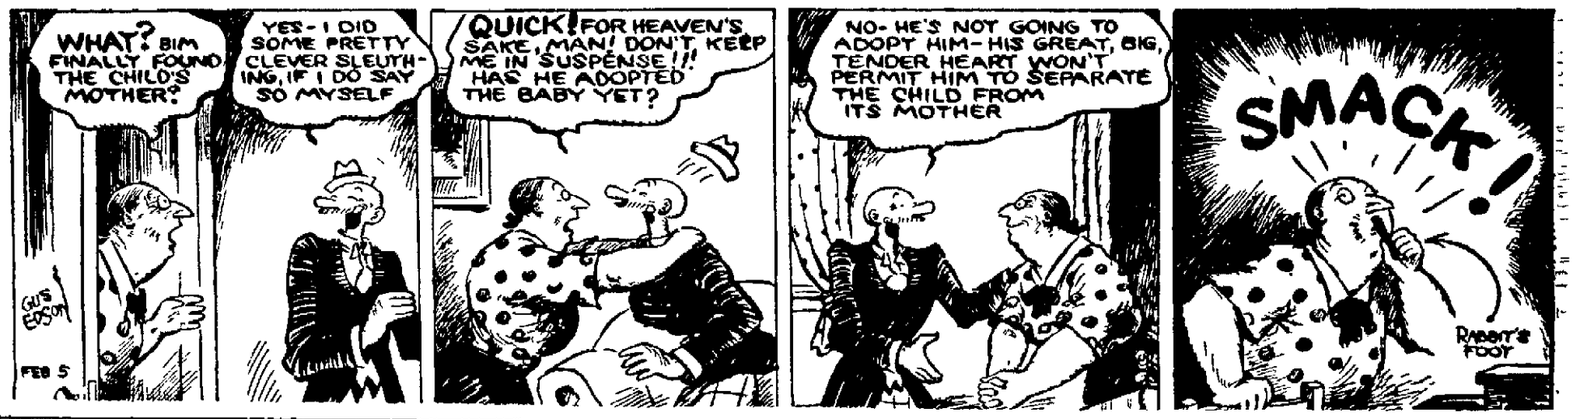
TAILSPIN TOMMY—Skeeter's Hunches Have Always Been Good! By Hal Forrest

I'M SORRY, SKEETS, I DIDN'T MEAN IT THAT WAY YOUR LOSS AND TOMMY'S IS MY LOSS!
I UNDERSTAND CHIEF!
BECAUSE THREE-POINT MIGHT HAVE HAD THE GOVERNMENT CONTRACT TO BUILD THOSE SHIPS!
THREE-POINT WILL HAVE A CHANCE TO BID FOR TH' CONTRACT!
BECAUSE I GOTTA HUNCH TOMMY'N' ME WILL GIT THEM PLANS BACK!
AH-H THE IMPETUOUSNESS OF YOUTH! BUT, I WISH I COULD FEEL AS SURE ABOUT THAT AS

BRINGING UP FATHER— By George McManus

HOW CAN I EVER EXPRESS MY TRULY GREAT APPRECIATION FOR WHAT YOU HAVE DONE FOR ME BY NOT B'ING THAT STOCK YOU SAVED ME FROM RUIN-
TUT-TUT- I'M NOT FINISHED- DON'T GET ME EXCITED OR I'LL FORGET WHAT I DID-
I MIGHT HAVE KNOWN IT- I SUPPOSE YOU USED YOUR GREAT JUDGMENT AND BOUGHT SOMETHIN' WORSE-
I WENT ACROSS THE STREET AND I SAW SOME STOCKS MUCH CHEAPER-- SO I BOUGHT THEM INSTEAD-
THIS IS TERRIBLE- WHAT DID YOU BUY?
THE NAME OF THE FIRM WAS- MOORE-MARGIN AND HUREY- BUT I CAN'T THINK WHAT I BOUGHT- I KNOW I BOUGHT IT- I WONDER IF THAT'S ALL I KNOW- LET ME THINK--
MR JIGGS- THE FIRM OF MOORE- MARGIN AND HUREY CALLED UP AND THEY SAID THE STOCK SIR VON PLATTER BOUGHT FOR YOU- IS UP TEN POINTS- THEY WANT TO SPEAK TO YOU ON THE 'PHONE-
NO- IT COULDN'T BE STEEL- OR COPPER-- I WONDER IF IT BEGINS WITH "Z"- NO- BUT IT IS NOT "Z"-

THE GUMPS—Mamma's Lucky Day. By Gus Edson



WHAT? BIM FINALLY FOUND THE CHILD'S MOTHER?
YES- I DID SOME PRETTY CLEVER SLEUTHING, IF I DO SAY SO MYSELF
QUICK! FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE, MAN! DON'T KEEP ME IN SUSPENSE!! HAS HE ADOPTED THE BABY YET?
NO- HE'S NOT GOING TO ADOPT HIM- HIS GREAT, BIG, TENDER HEART WON'T PERMIT HIM TO SEPARATE THE CHILD FROM ITS MOTHER

PAM—Startling! By A. W. Brewerton

GUESS I WAS SILLY TO GET SO SCARED- HE PROBABLY DIDN'T RECOGNIZE ME AT ALL!
THE MEN IN THE SEAT JUST BACK OF HER HAD BEEN VERY QUIET!
I ONLY SAW HIM FOR A SECOND — BUT I'M CERTAIN IT'S THE SAME MAN!
LATER THE MEN STARTED TALKING —BUT IN VERY LOW TONES!
IF IT IS THAT MAN —THEN HE'S A — CRIMINAL!—OH, I WONDER WHY HE'S ON THIS PLANE—WHERE HE'S GOING?
SHE HAD BEEN UNABLE TO CATCH A WORD OF THE MEN'S CONVERSATION, WHEN SUDDENLY SHE JUMPED, —ALL HER NERVES A TINGLE! — SHE'D HEARD THE WORD "GORDON"— THEN REPEATED AGAIN— "DAVID GORDON"!
OH!— OH, MY GOODNESS! — DAVID!?!
THIS CRIMINAL MEMBER OF THAT AWFUL GANG TALKING OF GORDON! —DO THEY, TOO, KNOW WHERE HE IS? IS THAT WHERE THEY ARE BOUND?
As THE PLANE PROCEEDED, PAM RECOVERED SOMEWHAT FROM HER ALARM! NOTHING HAD HAPPENED-

ANALYSTS FAIL IN SEARCH FOR TREND CLUES

Small Gains Dominate Mart In Quiet Opening; Market Sentiment Mixed.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Gains running to a point or so predominated in today's early stock market proceedings, although a number of issues were unchanged and a few were lower.

At a quiet opening improvement was shown by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Anaconda, Kennecott, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Western Union, Boeing, Chrysler and Sears Roebuck.

American Telephone dipped more than a point. Westinghouse, Goodyear and Pennsylvania were a shade in arrears.

Market sentiment was mixed before the opening as analysts searched unsuccessfully for definite trend clues.

None too cheerful were statements of the first seven chain store and mail order concerns to report for January. These disclosed an average sales decline of 3.7 per cent from the 1937 month.

remained free of any understanding or agreement to consult with Great Britain in international affairs.

La Follette joined a determined bloc of senators seeking to force the administration to explain its foreign policy prior to a vote on the naval appropriations bill.

Sen. William E. Borah, R., Ida., who warned that indications of an agreement with Great Britain had threatened a situation similar to that preceding the World war, Sen. Hiram Johnson, R., Cal., and Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., have been particularly active in the campaign.

La Follette said he was "unalterably opposed" to any co-ordinated policy or action between the United States and Great Britain such as hinted by the refusal of Leahy to discuss such questions.

"Every time we vote on an appropriation bill we vote on a policy," La Follette declared. "In the case of proposed appropriations for a larger navy the only difference is that we don't know what policy we are voting for, or against.

"We are buying a pig in a poke—and a very expensive one at that."

TWO INDICTED BY JURY FREED

Larceny Charges Against Mifflin, Lexington Men Nolled.

Indictments charging grand larceny returned by the county grand jury against William Snook of Mifflin township and Russell Sprunger, Lexington, had been nolled today by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston at the request of County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott.

The court entry freeing the pair of charges was filed after an investigation of the cases revealed that accusations aginst them were insufficient to warrant further prosecution, Marriott said.

The men were indicted last month in connection with the alleged theft of building materials valued at about $400. The charges were filed by C. H. Varner.

Columbus Bank Robbers Open Fire As Police Squad Stages Raid On Hideout.

Ohio National bank, surprised Boettcher, Grinkowicz, "Mac" and Figuli in the rooming house hideout.

"All hell broke loose in a moment," as Phillips described it.

All Cash Recovered.

Detective Chief Harry Carson and Ralph Bartlett, Franklin county prosecutor, said they obtained from Figuli a verbal statement that the four men held up the bank, located less than two miles from the hideout. They reported most of the $3,500 cash loot was recovered.

Glenn Hoffman, assistant detective chief, declared that the capture resulted from a "tip" from the mysterious police "grape-vine" system of communication. He said he had been informed that Charles Bird, known to officers as "Public Enemy No. 2," was a member of the gang. Bird escaped from the Cuyahoga county jail last Sept. 23 while awaiting trial on bank robbery charges.

First reports listed Bird as one of the victims, but Hoffman asserted that no trace of him was found.

Carson said that Figuli also admitted participation in the $5,000 robbery of Cleveland's Lorain street bank last Jan. 14. The Bird gang looted that bank of $18,886 a year ago this month.

Hoffman said that four other persons were in technical custody pending an investigation of the gang's residence at the rooming house. He investigated them as Mrs. Watring's sons, Fred, 18, and Clyde, 16; Mrs. Bertie Fiske, owner of the house, and her brother, Frank Price, 38.

Mrs. Arma O'Neil and four children cowered in an unstairs room while bullets riddled the downstairs part of the house.

The Hilltop bank robbery followed by 45 hours the holdup of the Hilltop branch of the Federal Savings and Loan association, but Figuli denied to Carson that the gang was implicated in that crime.

Fires Through Door.

"Danner and Phillips went to the front door and Cline and I went to the rear," said Cooke in describing the raid.

"One of the fellows looked out through a key hole and saw us. He put his gun against the key hole and shot. Something hit me and I thought I was shot, but it was only a piece from the door lock. Then Cline staggered and mumbled: 'I'm hit.'

"I darted into a kitchenette where I could command a view of two doors. A woman (Mrs. Watring) come running out and I told her to hide under a sink.

"One of the men came through the door, fired once at me and missed. My shot hit him and he pitched forward. Then another of the men came out and his shot struck the woman. I began shooting at him."

While Cooke was halting two of the men, Boettcher fled from the front of the house, pursued by Phillips and Danner.

"He was shooting alternately at Danner and me and we were shooting back," Phillips said. "All at once I felt blood trickling down my face."

Danner and Boettcher finally came face to face and emptied their guns at each other, 12 feet apart.

Figuli, who told police he was behind a sofa during the shooting, added:

"We were just standing around the house when we noticed the plainclothesmen. We had divided the money, about $500 each.

"Mac was the first to notice the detectives and he let them have it."

of improving West Fourth street which is a section of state route 30N.

Hunter said he had requested the engineering department to start on the plans at once.

"I would like to have them completed within a week or 10 days so they can be taken to Columbus," he added.

It was generally agreed by the group yesterday, he said, that the work should be done. Speed in preparing the plans for presentation to the state is necessary so the project can be included in the highway department's 1938 program, the mayor explained.

George Berg, chairman of council's street committee, said that plans for widening the street had been abandoned and that the city ask only financial aid in resurfacing Fourth street from North Diamond, west to the city limits.

"We are anxious to have the plans before the state officials at the earliest possible date," Berg said, "so we know just where we stand." He added the street committee was now drafting its street program for the year and wants to know whether the Fourth street improvement would have to be included as a city project.

Our Object and Purpose

The object and purpose of The Mechanics Building and Loan Company is to encourage industry, frugality, home building, and savings among its patrons, the accumulation of these savings, and the loaning of such accumulations to borrowers on first mortgage security.

Idle money is like seed that is not planted. It will never yield a harvest, it may be spent or lost or stolen, but if placed on deposit it will work for you and yield a harvest of security and profit. Interest is paid on savings from the 1st and 15th of each month at the rate of 3½% per annum, payable semi-annually July 1st and January 1st each year.

Should you be interested in borrowing money on your home and repay the same within a reasonable length of time and without extra fees and costs, we recommend our loan plan which calls for payments of 1% per month and completely pays for the home in less than 12 years. The actual costs in dollars of interest paid is 45% less than a loan plan which requires 20 years to repay. You will also find that there is a distinct advantage in having your mortgage held by a local institution, so that questions can be answered or necessary changes arranged for promptly and satisfactorily, while no bonus, premium or commission is charged for loaning money.

Your business is welcome and confidential.

Maps Action to End Lynch Bill Filibuster

Not That It Matters

—By JANE WILLIAMS

ARE you just a little tired of reading about Washington, the president, Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green, the depression, big business and little business? Then let's talk about Mansfield for just a little while.

The parks committee of the Chamber of Commerce has proposed a plan for beautification of some of the natural parks this summer, whereby the city would give $6,000 and WPA $19,000.

The plan is well thought out and particularly practical in view of the fact that the city must do something to provide for its unemployed families. It isn't just a matter of preserving and beautifying the natural playgrounds we have; it will bring into the city $19,000 that will be paid out in wages to families that otherwise will be on relief. In fact, most of the $25,000 would go into pay envelopes. And one way or another, the time has come when Mansfield has to pick up its relief burden—either jobs or doles, and the majority of men prefer the jobs.

THE plan calls for beautifying the park system which is now known as North Lake, Middle and South parks. Because of its equipment for picnics, North Lake is jammed all through the summer with adults and children, while the other two adjoining parks are little used in comparison. Yet they are more scenically beautiful. In the last two years the city has spent exactly $459 on Middle park and less than that on South park.

Yet here are two parks which can be seen by every tourist going through Mansfield on 30 south, and which offer a natural outdoor recreational center for adults and children. They could be made 100 per cent more attractive than they are, by cleaning them up, cutting out dead wood, laying stone walks, planting flowers and grass.

The project has been passed on and approved by the Mansfield Parks association; it should not be difficult to sell the idea to the large group of women who make up the garden clubs of the city. The most important step in the plan is to sell it to members of city council, not only as a conservation measure, but an economic one.

If you are interested speak your piece about it to members of the finance committee of the city council, who are Fred Miller, C. N. Shultz and George Berg; or to members of the parks committee of council—Harry Emmons, Russell Porch and George Kyle.

CITY FATHERS will do well to give considerable thought to the proposed parking meters. Because, by any other name, they are just another tax slapped onto the motorist. A nickel an hour doesn't sound frightening, but like the sales tax it isn't as innocuous as it sounds. If a woman makes one trip down town a day to market, and one of the youngsters runs down town for something, and father drives down in the evening, there is at the very least 15 cents a day. Do you want to pay 15 cents a day additional tax on your auto?

But the most unfair phase of the proposition is that it taxes the careful observer of parking rules as well as the careless one. Even though you have obeyed every traffic regulation governing parking for the last 25 years—you still will pay your meter tax when you park down town, even if it's only for five minutes.

So far as additional revenue is concerned, why not raise the ante on traffic tickets? Make it $3 instead of $1, and $5 for second offenses in a limited period.

And this is another thing you can talk about to your ward councilman—whether "fer or agin" it.

ERNEST WATSON BURGESS, 51-year-old bachelor professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, has developed what he believes to be a scientific method of telling whether a marriage will be a success or failure even before the organist bursts into Mendelssohn's pride and the minister begins with "Dearly Beloved—", according to an article in Time magazine today.

The theory has been tested on the lives of 526 married couples in Illinois. He gives a lot of measuring rules, but the most important are these: Young people are most likely to be happily married if their parents were. The closer a person is to his or her parents, the greater chance for marital happiness—popular belief to the contrary.

An only or youngest child is a poor marriage risk—unless married to an oldest or middle child. In other words, two "spoiled" persons shouldn't marry. Marry your like in nationality, education, economic and social status — your chances are better.

AND—get this—a person who has attended Sunday school after 10 years of age is a much better risk than one who hasn't, and even better if still attending. A regular income is more important than a large, but irregular one. The girl who has worked before marriage is a better risk than one who hasn't. Marriages for companionship and affection are more successful than those basen on infatuation and romance.

Relatively unimportant, says the professor, to a successful marriage are table manners, religion, or possession of an even temper.

But then the professor has never been married to a gal who drinks out of her saucer or throws the chinaware when upset.

* * *

WARNER OLAND, the Charlie Chan of moom pictures, (he's in Monte Carlo today) has had a nervous breakdown as the result of quarreling with his wife. A court has ordered him to pay her $2,200 a month—or was it a week? These movie salaries confuses me — so who wouldn't have a nervous breakdown?

Most men would have apoplexy.

BARKLEY HITS WASTE OF TIME IN STATEMENT

Calls For Action On Farm Bill Wednesday To Break Deadlock on Measure.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky indicated today he would move to lay aside the anti-lynching bill next week.

"I am unwilling that this whole session should be wasted or consumed in futile discussion," he said.

Barkley voted against shelving the measure when southerners failed, by a 52 to 34 vote,, to pigeon-hole it yesterday. The vote was on a motion by Senator Glass (D.-Va.) that the bill be displaced by the $1,400,000,000 independent appropriations measure.

The defeat left undaunted the bill's foes who have filibustered against the measure for a month. Some said the vote was important only in that it allowed advocates of the bill to register themselves. On the next vote, they said, the measure surely would be laid aside.

Farm Bill First.

Barkley told reporters the senate probably would take up the compromise farm bill Wednesday.

It was expected that after action on the farm bill the anti-lynching measure would be shelved and the senate would go on to the pile of legislation awaiting its attention.

Among other important measures hanging fire are the government reorganization bill and the independent offices, naval and treasury-postoffice appropriations bills.

Another appropriation bill, the $27,000,000 first deficiency measure, was approved by the house yesterday and will reach the senate calendar soon.

Both senate and house were in recess today.

Before the senate commerce committee yesterday, Secretary Perkins testified that enactment of labor legislative recommendations of former Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the maritime commission would be a "mistake."

Kennedy has recommended legislation restricting the right of maritime labor to strike, but Miss Perkins contended that a preferable policy toward the attainment of peace would be to let present maritime labor activities continue.

Shelby Man, Facing Charge of Arson, Held After Row.

Hiram Littleton, 39, of Shelby, under indictment for arson in an attempt to burn the Shelby jail, was held in the county jail today on a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Littleton was arrested early today at a Vernon Junction restaurant by Constable Jack McCormick of Sharon township after he was accused of kicking out a window.

Indicted last month by the county grand jury on the arson count, Littleton is awaiting arraignment on the indictment. He had been free on bond The arson indictment was returned after Shelby officials said he kicked a hole in the plaster in the city jail, stuffed waste paper into the wall and ignited it. He was confined in the jail at the time on an intoxication charge.

Trustees End Year's Search For President by Electing Prominent Educator.

KENT—(INS)—A search of nearly a year by the Kent State university board of trustees for a successor to Dr. James O. Engleman as university president was ended today with the election of Dr. Karl C. Leebrick, nationally-prominent scholar, to the position.

Dr. Leebrick's selection and acceptance was announced by John R. Williams, president of the board, at the conclusion of a three-hour meeting here. He was one of three educators who had been under consideration for some time.

It was believed Dr. Leebrick would assume the presidency in June, when Dr. Engleman's retirement is effective, but no definite date has been set.

Dr. Leebrick, head of the department of political science at the University of Hawaii from 1920 to 1928, this spring will finish 10 years as dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Syracuse university.

For four years he served as director of the institute of international relations of the Pacific coast, and in 1924 he was a Japan-American society invitational lecturer to Japan. He is the author of several books and is affiliated with numerous national and international societies.

DEFENSE PREPARES TO REST IN "WHITE FLAME" MURDER TRIAL

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES—The question of whether distraught Paul Wright, delicate former airport president, committed murder when he slew his wife and his robust "best friend," John Kimmel, may not be put to the trial jury before Wednesday.

At least three more defense witnesses and 10 or more prosecution rebuttal witnesses remain to be heard. The trial recessed late yesterday until Monday.

Prosecution witnesses probably will include Wright's mother-in-law, Mrs. J. E. McBride of Detroit.

After testimony is concluded, at least a day is expected to be consumed in lawyers' arguments and instructions to the jury.

The last defense witness before the week-end recess was Dr. Samuel Marcus, psychiatrist. He and Assistant Prosecutor J. Miller Leavy tangled in a joust of wits over the question of whether Wright could have slain his 29-year-old wife and Kimmel, 32, without realizing, at the time, what he was doing, as Dr. Marcus contended he could.

At one time, Dr. Marcus referred to the shooting as "this accident."

The defense theory is that Wright was shocked into a state resembling amnesia upon finding his wife and Kimmel in an unusual embrace 4 a. m., Nov. 9 on a piano bench and did not regain normal consciousness until he had fired six bullets into them. The state contends he did know what he was doing, and took enough time to do it to make the slaying "murder in cold blood." Four jury verdicts are possible, first degree murder, second degree, manslaughter, or acquittal. No insanity issue is involved at present.

ANNUAL SESSION

Y. W. Hears Cleveland Woman At Meeting Tuesday.

Mrs. Myles F. Bixler of Cleveland, a student of international affairs, will be the speaker when the Y. W. C. A. holds its annual dinner meeting at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday at the First Congregational church. About 125 are expected to attend.

Mrs. Bixler will talk on the world Y. W. C. A. under the general theme of "Through the Geneva Windows."

Annual reports of the Y. W. will be given by Miss Margaret West, executive secretary, and Mrs. Lowell Bourns, treasurer of the board. Mrs. Robert Barker will sing a group of solos, with Mrs. A. C. Butterfield at the piano. Devotions will be conducted by a group of Blue Tri girls, Katherine Fighter, Willa Hollingshead, Kathleen McIntosh and Miss Katherine Huber. Mrs. W. B. Ford, president, will preside.

Mrs. Philip Corey is chairman of the dinner committee and Mrs. Paul Eliot of the program committee. Reservations for the dinner will close at the Y. W. Monday.

Optimist, Gyro Members to Join For Luncheon Wednesday.

An inside picture of the workings of a major air transport system will be presented to members of the Optimist and Gyro clubs by Ned Parish, Cleveland air lines official, at a luncheon meeting Wednesday noon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Parish, assistant district traffic manager for United Air lines, will show motion pictures and explain the various stages of a trans-continental air journey. The pictures will reveal many of the little known facts about air transportation and how plane schedules are planned to fit weather conditions.

Dr. L. D. Bonar is the program chairman for the meeting.

CITY ASKS BIDS ON 400 METERS

Prepares to Buy Equipment and Supplies for Water Department.

Sealed bids will be received at the office of the secretary of the city board of control until noon Feb. 23 for the furnishing of water meters, copper tubing, service boxes and liquid chlorine for the improvement of the water department, Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert announced today.

Specifications call for 400 water meters equipped with straight reading cubic foot dials, complete with connections for service lines, 400 service boxes adjustable to four feet in length, 2,250 pounds of liquid chlorine, and 2,000 feet of copper tubing.

Each proposal must be accompanied with a certified check for $50 drawn on a Mansfield bank.

Up and Down THE STREET

Life is just one disillusion after another. Eugene Menke, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Menke, 89 Harker street, forms most of his ideas about life from the motion pictures he sees, and he is particularly interested in motion pictures revolving around newspaper life. So that when his father, News-Journal stereotyper, brought him up to The News-Journal editorial office, he was bitterly disappointed. "Why haven't they got any regular reporters?" he demanded when his father assured him the six or seven persons he saw were reporters, he said: "You can't fool me; a reporter always wears his hat turned up in front and talks over two telephones at once!"

Would an antique collector be interested in antique cookies? Earl Massa, Linden road, tells of two antique cookies that are worth $100. They belong to Paul Russell at Plymouth. One is a white sugar cookie and one a brown molasses cookie and they were baked 42 years ago by the baker at the Soldiers' home in Dayton. Russell, then a small boy, was taken through the institution, and on the tour he was presented with the cookies. They were souvenirs to him then and he kept them. They are in perfect condition and would still look very tempting in a baker's window. Russell has been offered considerable money for them and collectors say they are worth $100, but he refuses to part with them.

SUE AFTER CRASH

TROY—(AP)—The Waco Aircraft company faced a $150,000 suit today filed by Sadie and Olive Conn, executrices of the estate of Arthur S. Conn of Cuyahoga Falls, who with three other persons was killed in an air crash in North Carolina Feb. 7, 1937. The petition charged that the Waco plane in which he crashed was structurally faulty.

NEW 'PIRACY' REPORT ADDS TO TENSION

Extension Of Naval Patrol In Mediterranean Studied At Cabinet Meeting.

(By United Press)

LONDON—The Exchange Telegram correspondent at Barcelona quoted an unconfirmed report today that Spanish Nationalist airplanes had attacked another British ship approaching Barcelona, but had failed to hit it.

This report arrived as the British government, its anger over the renewal of Mediterranean "piracy" increased by the airplane sinking of the steamship Alcira, was reported ready to draft a strong note to the Nationalist givernment.

Cabinet Meets.

The report also coincided with a hurriedly convened meeting of cabinet ministers at the foreign office. It was believed extension and strengthening of the "anti pirate" parole in the Mediterranean was discussed.

It was forecast that the note to the Spanish Nationalist government would say, as regards the sinking of the Alcira and the previous sinking apparently by a submarine of the British steamship Endymion, that the government did not recognize any blockade of the Loyalist coast and would refuse to tolerate attacks on British shipping.

A telephone call from Rome to London last night conveyed the news that Premier Benito Mussolini would join Great Britain and France in carrying out new British plans to end "piracy."

Proposes Similar Plan.

The message as conveyed to the foreign office was:

"The Italian government has concurred with measures which the British government intends to adopt in the zone of the western Mediterranean reserves to British naval patrol. The Italian government propose to adopt similar measures in the zone entrusted to Italian naval patrols."

It was noted that this message recognized that Britain had determined to carry out the measures regardless of the support of other nations—and France was ready to do whatever Britain did.

DADS, SONS DINE

Huston To Address First M. E. Banquet Thursday.

A program of speakers and entertainment has been arranged for the annual Father and Son banquet of First Methodist Episcopal church, which will be held at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the church dining room.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston will speak on "Father and Son Problems in Mansfield." Others who will discuss father and son relationship are J. Leo Hartmann, William Sites and Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the First M. E. church.

The entertainment will include Ralph Smith, ventriloquist of Galion, who does a Bergen-Charlie McCarthy act; Charlotte Brightbill, accordionist and Marjorie Silcott, soprano. William Kurtz' orchestra will provide the music during the dinner hour.

DEATH ENDS HONEYMOON

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Ill health was blamed today for the suicide in nearby Dover Village of Irving C. Fauver, 64, who shot himself to death a few hours after returning from a Florida honeymoon with his bride.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The alleged "discoveries" of any screen star are myriad. Those who claim credit for first unearthing the talents of such as Chaplin, Shirley Temple, or Gable, should be laid end to end.

Here's an instance of how the "Columbus business" works: Ann Rutherford.

Ann's mother, Lucille Mansfield Rutherford, was a film player in the old Biograph days, probably can be credited as Ann's "real discoverer." Ann worked in vaudeville and stock with her parents, later on the radio. Nat Levine (then at Republic) signed her from the air. In a year she played more than a dozen leads, had to take a rest. The short "Annie Laurie" was next, the lead in "The Devil Is Driving" and another short, "Carnival In Paris." Jack Chertok, Metro's short producer, was her second Columbus.

Producer John Considine, looking for a girl for "Benefits Forgot," saw Ann's "Carnival In Paris" and decided she was the girl. Simultaneously, Director Clarence Brown saw her lunching in the commissary, selected her as his choice.

"I've found the girl we need," he told Considine.

"So have I," Considine told Brown.

So Ann Rutherford has four—at least four—discoverers, Levine (now at Metro), Chertok, Considine, Brown!

A dignified hostelry, peeking perhaps amazedly through its protective palms at the smart-aleck rumble and roar of Hollywood boulevard, was 35 years old the other night. By coincidence, the Warner Bros. film, "Hollywood Hotel," titled after the air show and indirectly after Hollywood's oldest inn, was ready for release. Parties have been given for much less reason, and those sentimental Warners are not ones to let a 35th birthday go uncelebrated—especially in these days of nation-wide hook-ups.

It was a very nice party, particularly because it brought the old-timers out in force Flora Finch, and Jean Hersholt and Donald Crisp—two to whom the talkies have been most kind—and Bryant Washburn, Herbert Rawlinson, Jean Acker . . and the one and only Queen of Sheba, Betty Blythe, looking prosperous and maturely pretty in furs and orchids . . . These, and many others, and there were sentimental reminiscences and tears for the old days when Hollywood hotels Thursday evenings" were the social center.

But among the younger guests, and perhaps among the old-timers too, there was more interest in Olivia de Havilland, Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Marie Wilson, Rudy Vallee, . . . The movie generations met friendly—and parted, the evening passing with no somber reflections (spoken at least) on the quick passing of fame.

PRESBYTERIAN CHOIRS JOIN IN VESPER SERVICE

Junior and Senior Groups to Present Program Sunday of Negro Spirituals.

The junior and senior choirs of the First Presbyterian church will present a vesper service of Negro spirituals at 4:30 p. m., Sunday, under the direction of Mrs. C. O. Anglin, director of the choirs.

Solo numbers during the service will be sung by Miss Jane Weuthrick, soprano, Mrs. C. O. Anglin, alto, Leo Hans, tenor, Paul Watts, bass. The soloists and the choirs will be accompanied by Mrs. A. L. Twitchell, organist.

Three Solo Numbers.

Numbers to be sung by the soloists include, "My Soul's Been Anchored in The Lord," by Mrs. Anglin; "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," by Miss Weuthrick, and "The Crucifixion" by Hans.

The senior choir will present "Deep River," "Dig My Grave," "Listen to The Lambs," and "Go Down, Moses." The junior choir will sing two numbers, "Heav'n Heav'n," and "Goin' Home."

For the prelude Mrs. Twitchell will play, "Largo' from the "New World Symphony," and for the postlude she will play "Finale," by Fauchey.

During the church services at 10:30 a. m., the senior choir under the direction of Mrs. Anglin, will sing "The Silent Sea" by Neidlinger. For the offertory, Mrs. Anglin's solo will be "Going Home," by Dvorak. The prelude will be "Adagietto" by Bizet, and for the postlude, Mrs. Twitchell, organist, will play, "Grand Choeur" by Adams.

Rev. D. N. Roller, pastor, will preach on the subject, "The Mountain Can Be Moved."

Orchestra, Adult Group to Join For Baptist Services

The adult department of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday school and Sunday school orchestra will take part in the worship service at 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

The orchestra under the direction of Guy E. Shawk will present a special program, and Charles Abele will be guest leader for the adult department.

During the service, the choir, under the direction of Lawrence M. Frank, minister of music, will sing Purcell's "Rejoice in The Lord Always." Frank will present three organ selections, "Serenade" by Widor; "Largo" from the "New World Symphony" by Dvorak, and "Prelude from C Minor Sonata" by Guilmant. Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor, will preach on the subject, "I, Trouble."

Meetings of two societies of the church are scheduled during the coming week. The Samaritan class meets at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. George Boswell, 264 Park Avenue west, and the Women's Union will convene at 10 a. m. Wednesday at the church. Mrs. C. C. Kidwell will be the leader, and will discuss the subject, "Moslem Women." Mrs. Charles Abele will be the devotional leader. Luncheon will be served at noon.

INCOME TAX IN NUTSHELL

NO. 12

Deduction for Business Expenses.

Deductions for business expenses form a large item in the return of many taxpayers and must have certain qualities to be allowed. Such deduction must be for an expenditure in connection with the maintenance and operation of the taxpayer's business or business properties; it must be an ordinary expense and it must be a necessary expense. In insisting upon the latter qualifications, the bureau of internal revenue is upheld by the board of tax appeals and the courts. Ordinary and necessary expenses are only those which are usual and essential in the case of similar taxpayers, "and do not include extraordinary and nonessential expenses."

Typical business expenses of a mercantile establishment are amounts paid for advertising, hire of clerks and other employes, rent, light, heat, water, stationery, stamps telephone, property insurance, and delivery expenses.

The expense of a manufacturing business includes labor, supplies, repairs, light and heat, power, selling cost administration, and other similar charges.

The farmer may deduct all necessary expenses incurred in the production, harvesting, and marketing of crops, including labor, cost of seed and fertilizer used, cost of minor repairs to farm buildings (other than his dwelling), and small tools used up in the course of a year or two. A taxpayer may conduct more than one business and claim the business deductions of each.

ILLUSTRATES SERMONS

A series of illustrated sermons will be given each Sunday during February by Rev. Iva L. Wallick, pastor of the Church of the Foursquare Gospel, 168 South Adams street. The first sermon in the series will be given tomorrow. The subject will be, "Ships at Sea."

CHRISTIANITY IS WORLD'S ONLY HOPE, METHODIST COUNCIL TOLD

CHICAGO—Christianity is the world's only real hope, Francis Bowes Sayre, assistant secretary of state, told 5,000 Methodist leaders attending the United Methodist Council on the Future of Faith and Service, in session here.

Sayre reiterated the statement made by Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, head of the Methodist church in the Chicago area and executive chairman of the council meeting. Bishop Waldorf said, as he set the theme of the three-day meeting, "If society is to be preserved and life is to be endurable and significant, the church and religion must not only point the way, but lead in the way out and up and forward."

"The age in which we live," Secretary Sayre explained, "constitutes a terrible challenge to Christianity. Between the ways of the world and the teachings of Christ, there has always been profound conflict — perhaps never more so than today.

"Christ taught human brotherhood. But modern war and industrial strife are leaving less and less room for genuine brotherhood. Christ taught that there is nothing of more powerful appeal to humanity than love, and that love is therefore actually more potent than material force. Yet upon material force modern civilization leans increasingly."

To the assembled Methodists he addressed the appeal, "The time is past for mere church going and singing of hymns. We must set out actually to build a society based upon the living principles of Christ. If our civilization cannot be brought to understand more clearly and to believe more strongly in the fundamental teachings of Jesus Christ, it cannot survive."

'SPIRIT' IS TOPIC

Lesson-Sermon Will Be Read at Church of Christ, Scientist.

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "Grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption" (Ephesians 4:30.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the most high . . . And call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me." (Psalms 50:14, 1, 15.)

'BOOK FORGETTING' ADDS $1,200 ANNUALLY TO LIBRARY'S INCOME

The Mansfield Public library has approximately $1.200 added to its income very year because you and you and you forgot to take back your library book on schedule.

Fines range from a few pennies to the cost of the book itself, according to Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian. But over the year the 1.200 means an average per borrower of less than 10 cents, for there were 13.000 borrowers last year.

The main cause of keeping a book overtime is simply forgetting it, Miss MacKellar says. The book, when finished, is placed in the book case or somewhere with other books—and forgotten until there comes a notice from the library that it is overdue. Then again, the borrower in some cases is so busy with other affairs that the book isn't completed before the date due, and it is held over purposely.

Adults are more apt to be delinquent about returning books on time than children. For instance on a report of 137 delinquent books, 96 had been borrowed by adults and 41 by children.

If a borrower fails to answer the first notice from the library, a second and third are sent. If these go unanswered, and the book is still out, a messenger is sent for it. In many cases the borrower—and the book—has moved away from the address given.

When a book can't be found, a borrower must pay for it. If they refuse, or claim they have never had the book and the records show that they have, a "black mark" is placed against their name at the library, and they can never borrow books again until they settle for the missing one. Miss MacKellar explains

Money brought into the library through these fines is used to buy new books.

Girl Annoyed With Friend Who Tells All

By VIRGINIA LEE

BROWN EYES has a boy friend who seems to talk too much. When she was going with him he seemed always to be telling his friends about everything they did and everything she said—not that there was anything to be ashamed of, she writes.

"I just can't do or say anything that I don't hear about it months afterward," she says, "just as if he took minutes. Do you advise me to refuse his dates and try to forget him?"

I think it would be wise, Brown Eyes, just to cross this young man off your list, unless you want to marry a recording machine. He must have a good memory to remember all the things you do and say when you have a date with him. Too bad he doesn't put it to better use. It is a bit disconcerting to hear it all later, even though it may be a little flattering to know that what you do and say seems important enough to him to talk about to all his friends.

He must be an odd person and I don't believe he would make a very satisfactory life companion. He might broadcast all your marital affairs.

* * *

CHARLOTTE H.: I think you should find out just what is your father's objection to your boy friend. Does he think you are too young to have a boy friend? Or does he object to just this one boy?

Maybe your friend could have a good talk with your father and win him over. Fathers often are a little jealous of their girls' boy friends, and cannot realize that daughter has grown old enough to date.

UNHAPPY MOTHER: Odd, isn't it, that this one daughter of whom you have made such a pal should rush off and get married in such a hurry when she is under age, even refusing to let her dad go with them to give his consent to the marriage. I really don't know if the marriage would hold good under the law.

Surely she will tell you why she did it, sooner or later. I would be inclined to consult a lawyer and see if she is legally married, and if not, tell the young couple and insist that they have it done over with you and your husband's consent.

It is very fortunate you do not disapprove of the young man, and they must have had very good reasons for rushing off pell-mell and being married. Young people who are otherwise very satisfactory sons and daughters sometimes do queer and uncalculable things when they wed I've known it to happen.

PUZZLED has been going with a girl for the past two months or so, and he says he is in love with her. She likes to go with him—but not steady, she writes. She likes, but doesn't love him, and he wants to know if I think he should continue to go with her and try to win her love, or quit and try to forget her.

Well, Puzzled, I think if you really love the girl it would be wise to keep on going with her for awhile and see if she won't grow fonder of you As long as she isn't in love with anyone else, you have a chance, I should think. Don't give up the ship too easily, you know. Anything worth winning is worth fighting for.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

KATIE'S FACE was drawn down dolorously as she met me in the hall outside Mary's room, and she wiped her eyes ostentatiously on the corner of her apron

"Oh! my poor, poor Mees Mary," she said. "She soofer so mooch for her jung hoosband torn so croo-el-ly from her arms."

Katie was patently enjoying the made-to-order movie situation into which she was fitting Mary.

"Don't worry too much, Katie," I advised, stifling the almost irresistible impulse to laugh. "Miss Mary is young and she has plenty of hard work before her. She won't have time to suffer."

A speculative look came into Katie's eyes.

"May-be her am-bee-shun stifull her lof," she intoned oracularly, and a sudden fit of coughing was my only recourse.

"I get you vater," Katie said competently, and dashed to the nearest lavatory while I fought and conquered my unruly risibles When she hurried back with a glass of water, I was able to thank her gravely, quaff the water, and go into Mary's room without further colloquy.

Not Displeased.

I found her sitting up in bed with a breakfast tray in front of her, and though she shot a mutinous look at me as she gestured toward the bountiful supply of viands upon it, I did not get the impression that she was seriously displeased at either the sight or the smell of the appetizing and toothsome food Katie had brought to her.

"There's enough here for an elephant," she grumbled, but I noticed that she was buttering a hot biscuit—Katie's interpretation of the toast order—with every appearance of interest.

"Then play at being a pachyderm," I retorted. "You're going to have to emulate one in a few minutes."

"What do you mean?" She looked up startled.

"Nothing to worry about," I fibbed promptly, angry at myself for my thoughtless loquacity. "I'll tell you all about it when you've finished your breakfast, and not a second before"

She wrinkled her nose at me impudently.

"All right, Meanie," she said. "I'll not speak another word until I've finished. Does that suit you?"

"Perfectly," I retorted, smiling at her. And when she had kept her word, and discussed Katie's bountiful breakfast with thoroughness, I broke my news to her.

Mary Suspicious.

"Your grandmother wishes to come up to see you as soon as you have finished your breakfast," I began, and when I hesitated, Mary looked up at me sharply

"I'm overjoyed, of course," she said, 'but experience tells me I'd better keep a wary eye out to windward Has she anything up her darling old sleeve, by any chance?"

"You're a good guesser, Mary," I told her, smiling "She has She does not think you are fit to go into town today, and she is coming up here with the intention, as she expresses it, 'of seeing to this thing' herself. I thought I ought to warn you"

"Oh! what shall I do?" she wailed. "I just can't stay around here another twenty-four hours. I've simply got to get in there and get to work or I'll go crazy. And you know what Granzie is when she gets an idea fixed in her darling old noddle. It's simply im-poss-i-beel to extract it."

"We wont say impossible, Mary," I told her soothingly, "but it's going to take a lot of thought—and tact"

Has Sized Her Up.

"I don't suppose it would do any good for Miss Whitlock—" Mary stopped short and looked at me inquiringly. But Miss Whitlock answered before I could speak, and in a fashion which called forth my heartiest approbation.

"If your grandmother asks my opinion," she said with decision. "I will tell her most deferentially that in my opinion it will not hurt you to go to New York today But please, don't either of you appeal to me Any note of authority used toward Madame Graham by me would be fatal to any hope you might have of winning her over."

Mary laughed up at her.

"You have her sized up, haven't you?" she said. "But, Auntie Madge," she added hopefully, "you must have something up your sleeve when you won't say "Impossible"

"Just you, my Dear," I told her smiling. "You've always been able to coax your grandmother out of the dourest of her moods. If you play your cards right, I'm hoping you'll emerge from the game a winner. Think it over while I go down and tell her Miss Whitlock will have you ready to see her in ten minutes That will give you time to plan your campaign."

THEATER

THE same high-powered trio that appears in "Old Chicago,"—Tyrone Power, Alice Faye, and Don Amache—will be cast in "Alexander's Rag Time Band," one of the big pictures on the 20th Century-Fox program . . . The Ritz Brothers who have done a number of shorts, will be featured in a full length picture, "Kentucky Moonshine" . . Warner Baxter and Freddie Bartholomew will be teamed in Robert Stevenson's "Kidnapped' . . . Soon to be released is the talking picture version of "Sally, Irene and Mary" It was made years ago brought recognition to three unknown girls—Joan Crawford, Constance Bennett and Sally O'Neil. In the current version Alice Faye Joan Davis and Marjodie Weaver will have those same roles with Alice's husband, handsome Tony Martin and Fred Allen in the cast

"Stage Door."

One of the great picture hits of the year comes to the Ohio for the first half of the week opening with a midnight matinee tonight It is the screen drama of the New York stage hit "Stage Door," and is being acclaimed all over the country not only for its story but the individual performances of its star cast Ginger Rogers makes her first "straight" picture since breaking with Fred Astaire Katherine Hepburn is said to give her best performance since "Morning Glory" Andrea Leeds won a long term contract for the small part she played but which turned out to be the most talked part in the picture Others in it are Gail Patrick, Adolphe Menjou and William Corson Much of the action takes place in a theatrical rooming house where the romances, hopes, ambitions and dispairs of unknown stage players make up a colorful tapestry of life.

"Man Proof."

Myrna Loy, Franchot Tone and Rosalind Russell form an interesting trio in "Man Proof," which the Madison will show for three days starting Sunday. Walter Pidgeon, stage and screen player, makes a fourth in a major role. Fannie Heaslip Lee wrote the original novel, "The Four Marys" from which the play was made. It ran in the Ladies Home Journal. Mimi Swift is a bridesmaid at a wedding when she would much prefer to be the bride. So serious is she that she decides to wait until Allen is tired of his wife. In the mentime she is kidded along about her hopeless love by Jimmy Kilmartin, newspaper cartoonist In the end, when she finds that Allan loves only himself, she goes to Jimmy for a good cry, and discovers a new ending for her story Nana Bryant has an interesting role as Mimi's mother, a newspaper columnist.

"Looking for Trouble."

A revival of a comedy drama which featured Spencer Tracy, Jack Oakie, Arline Judge and Constance Cummings, is booked for a two day showing at the Majestic Sunday and Monday It concerns two telephone "trouble-shooters" the intrepid lineman who brave blizzards, fire, storm and flood in order that telephone communication may not be interrupted. One scene shows a telephone exchange in San Francisco's Chinatown, with all native operators A second feature is "Sergeant Murphy," with a horse in the title role It's the story of a private in the artillery who refuses to be separated from his favorite mount Ronald Reagan, Mary MaGuire and Donald Crisp head the cast.

"Prisoner of Zenda."

Three star names and a romantic love story are offered in The Prisoner of Zenda," the Ritz attraction Sunday and Monday Lovely Madeliene Carroll, Ronald Colman and Douglas Fairbanks jr., play the roles which are familiar to millions of readers of the Anthony Hope novel. Miss Carroll plays the Princess Flavia, Colman the English soldier of fortune, and Fairbanks the dark, mocking Rupert of Hentzau The supporting cast is a notable one including C. Aubrey Smith and Mary Astor. It is the romantic story of a king who was kidnapped, a cousin playing the king and a lovely woman who was engaged to one and in love with the other The sets for this Selznick production are among the largest ever made for a picture.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Feb. 6.

Sunday's horoscope holds testimony of very uneventful conditions, with deep thought or religious ceremonial taking up the day. It would be well to deal cautiously with any legal writings or other sorts of important documents that must be taken under consideration. Be wise also with elders or old matters.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year in which much may depend upon their own sound judgment and clever management.

A child born on this day may have talents of a sort, but will take itself and life very seriously. It may be critical and may incline to the friendship of elders. It would profit if such traits are very carefully observed and turned into creative talents in early life, giving it a bright and optimistic viewpoint.

For Monday, Feb. 7.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a very exciting and engaging day, probably on the theme of "going places and seeing things" that are new, adventurous and romantic. It may draw hard on the purse strings, but be wise in expenditures and indulgences

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of surprising events. Travel, new scenes and faces are in the picture, and such fresh contacts and adventures will broaden the mental outlook, expand the spirit and not prove in any way detrimental.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, adventurous, expansive in its ideas and broad in its yearnings. It may desire to get out into the world, but may need proper training and some moderating of lofty ambitions.

Date and Nut Kisses.

Two and one-half cups chopped dates, one and one-half cups chopped nuts, four egg whites, one cup sugar, oneteaspoon vanilla or orange flavoring. Add a dash of salt to whites and beat until stiff and in little peaks. Blend in all other items and drop on baking sheet, fashioning each kiss into oblong shape. Bake at 330 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

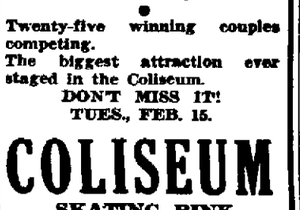
"The Authority on Authorities"

FIND ANOTHER WAY

Perhaps a declarer may be pardoned for trying a finesse which loses because the missing honor appears in the hand where it does the damage. If he knows in advance, however, from the bidding or previous play, that the honor is in the wrong place, there is then no excuse for his bad result. He should find some way to get along without taking the fatal finesse, if he can possibly do so.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

In a duplicate tournament, 6-Spades constituted the final contract at several tables, with South the declarer.

As each East had opened the bidding with a club, the lead from West was the club 2, won in the South with the A. A heart was then led to the K and the finesse in spades taken. The spade A was then cashed. The play varied from then on. When the hearts A and Q were now played and the diamond finesse tried, East won and returned a club, which was trumped in the North, but a diamond had to be given up later.

George Ball, president of the Cleveland Whist club, made the contract He was certain from East's opening bid that the diamond K was held in that hand. So when cashing the heart Q, he tossed the diamond 9 from dummy. He then led his club 10, knowing East would have to win. East had nothing to return but a diamond or a club, either of which made the contract secure for Mr. Ball.

* * *

Monday's Problem.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What is South's correct play to make 5-Diamonds, after the lead of the club Q?

Prune grape vines, currant and gooseberry bushes the latter part of February or first of March before the sap comes into them.

A bread mixer may be cleaned more quickly, if, after bread has been removed, boiling water is poured into mixer and allowed to stand for 10 minutes.

Madison Play One Of Few Comedies To Win 'Pulitzer'

"You Can't Take It With You," the stage show that will be presented at the Madison theater next Wednesday night, is one of the few American comedies ever to win the Pulitzer prize for the best play of the year.

The George Kaufman-Moss Hart play is still on Broadway after a run of more than a year. The cast which will present the comedy here is the same one that played in Cincinnati, Dayton and other Ohio cities and is made up of several of the players picked from New York and Chicago companies.

George Henry Tarder will be seen in the role of Grandpa Vanderhof, who got tired of working 30 years ago and just quit one day as he stepped out of the elevator. Adrienne Sarle plays Essie, the girl who took ballet dancing for eight years and still fell over her own feet; Donald Sharpe is the ice man who came to deliver ice and stayed eight years; Elwyn Harvey is the female combination of all the Marx Brothers, Mrs. Sycamore; and Walter Beck is Pa Sycamore who manufactured fireworks in his spare moments in the basement.

The advance sale has been better than for a stage show here in recent years, according to Manager William Dworski, the mail orders alone taking the center section downstairs and all of the mezzanine. All price seats however, are still available in the side sections and the balcony, Dworski said.

To preserve the dullness of dull mahogany, go over it occasionally with a cloth wrung out of vinegar and water, then polish with a soft duster.

Parsley, chopped fine and served with bouillon, adds much to its flavor and attractiveness.
